Bommai sounds poll bugle, tears into Congress over series of scams

We will transform this 'Janaspandana' into 'Vijayotsava' in 2023 polls, says chief minister

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Doddaballapura

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai sounded the poll bugle for the 2023 Assembly polls at the BJP's 'Janaspandana' rally by tearing into the Congress party over the alleged scams that took place when the party was in power in the state.

He was speaking at the twice-postponed rally which was held with much fanfare to celebrate his completion of one year as chief minister. The mega event, attended by an estimated three lakh people, took place at Doddaballapura, 40 km from Bengaluru, on Saturday.

"Yours (Congress) was a 100 per cent corrupt government. A bill of ₹40 crore was claimed without implementing works in the Minor Irrigation Department. Scams in Arkavathy Layout denotification, distribution of laptops to students, clearance of 36,000 borewells without identifying the beneficiaries, purchase of pillows for SC/ST students -- all happened when the Congress was in power," alleged Bommai, while warning that the BJP will expose the alleged misdeeds of the Siddararamaiah-led Congress government which ruled the state between 2013 and 2018.

Bommai's warning comes in the backdrop of the Congress party's campaign against the BJP government on corruption issues, especially the '40% commission' charges levelled by the contractors' association against the government.

The CM also alleged that the free rice scheme started by Prime Minister Narendra Modi's government at the Centre only filled the empty pockets of Siddaramaiah government. He added that young IAS officer Anurag Tewari, who was probing the scam in the Food and Civil Supplies Department, was found dead under mysterious circumstances. The CM also raked up scams related to II PUC question paper leak, recruitment of teachers and cropping up of the name of the son Siddaramaiah's cabinet colleague in illegal sand mining.

"The Congress government did not take action against any scams, whereas our government didn't spare even the top brass of the police accused in the PSI recruitment scam," he claimed. Bommai also said that the people of Karnataka saw corruption at its peak during the Siddaramaiah government, and will never vote the Congress back to power again. "We have started from here and will go ahead with rallies across the state. We will expose your (Congress) true colours and the lotus will bloom again. We will transform this 'Janaspandana' into 'Vijayotsava' in 2023 polls. If you have guts, try to stop us," he challenged. CONTINUED ON: P4

BJP holding rally using corruption money: Siddu

Video grab of Rahul Gandhi with Christian priest George Ponnaiah

THE Congress and the BJP were on Saturday locked in a war of words after a clip of Rahul Gandhi's purported conversation with Christian priest George Ponnaiah during the Tamil Nadu leg of his Bharat Jodo Yatra went viral.

In the video that was tweeted by BJP leaders, Rahul purportedly asks, "So, Jesus Christ is a form of God. Is that correct?" Priest Ponnaiah responds: "He's a real God. God reveals him as a man, a human person, not like Shakti or this power."

The Congress attacked the BJP saying it was spreading mischief. It alleging that the ruling party has turned more desperate ever since the successful launch of the yatra.

"An atrocious tweet from the BJP hate factory is doing the rounds. It bears no relation whatsoever to what is recorded in the audio. This is typical BJP mischief that has become more desperate after the successful launch of BharatJodoYatra which is evoking such a huge response," said Congress general secretary Jairam Ramesh. "What a morbid joke! Such attempts to damage the spirit of #BharatJodoYatra will fail miserably," he said in another tweet.

BJP leader Shehzad Poonawalla shot back saying, "George Ponnaiah who met Rahul Gandhi says 'Jesus is the only God unlike Shakti' ... This man was arrested for his Hindu hatred earlier — he also said 'I wear shoes because the impurities of Bharat Mata should not contaminate us.' Bharat Jodo with Bharat Todo icons."

SMRITI LEVELS SEDITION CHARGE AGAINST RAHUL

Union Minister for Women and Child Development and Minority Affairs Smriti Irani on Saturday levelled sedition charges against Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, who has embarked on party's ambitious 'Bharat Jodo Yatra' from Kanniyakumari to Kashmir, saying, "Rahul has said his fight is now against the Indian state, which has been allegedly using investigative agencies to nail the Opposition."

SC relief for TMC, HC order stayed

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

TRINAMOOL Congress leaders heaved a sigh of relief after a Supreme Court bench stayed proceedings in a public interest litigation (PIL) against ballooning assets of 19 of them, including ministers, pending before the Calcutta High Court.

They were particularly upset as the HC had ordered the impleading of the Enforcement Directorate (ED) in the case.

A bench of Chief Justice of India U U Lalit and justices S R Bhat and P S Narasimha, while issuing notice on Friday, posted the plea filed by Swarnakamal Saha for September 26.

The court's order came after senior advocate Kapil Sibal's submission that the HC's direction to the ED was without any foundation. The PIL was filed in the HC by one Biplob Chowdhury who questioned the astronomical growth in assets of the Trinamool lawmakers, citing their election affidavits.

The order directing ED to be a party was passed by the HC bench comprising Chief Justice Prakash Srivastava and Justice Rajarshi Bhardwaj. A review petition by three ministers named in the PIL — Firhad Hakim, Jyotipriyo Mullick and Arup Ray — challenging the decision to make ED a party in the matter is pending before the high court. Mullick called the SC stay order a moral victory for them and a slap on the face of the petitioner.

No Master Plan, no Master Plan Scheme...Reason why B'luru is flooding

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

STATE capital Bengaluru has not had a Master Plan since 2015, but most interestingly, the city never had a Master Plan Scheme drawn up. This is why most Bengalureans experience traffic jams, complain of narrow or poorly maintained footpaths, or experience flooding whenever it rains heavily.

While the Master Plan lists out areas where development can happen, the Master Plan Scheme explains how the development should happen, and if there is an extension of an area, how it should be done.

According to rules, a Master Plan Scheme should be prepared along with a Master Plan. Officials and experts admit that the Master Plan Scheme was never prepared for Bengaluru.

"A Master Plan Scheme is salient to a city and its organised growth. Because of its absence, there is haphazard development in Bengaluru, regular traffic jams, malls and mega housing projects on two-lane roads, regular flooding in the city," a senior government official told TNSE. The official also pointed out that there is no agency to prepare the Master Plan Scheme, which is why it has never been done.

While many serving government officials in Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) and BBMP wonder what the Master Plan Scheme is, retired officials admit that it was not done decades ago when no new Layouts were being formed, and politicians or bureaucrats showed no interest.

What are Master plan & scheme?

Master Plan defines how each area should be utilised, and divides the city into zones. Master Plan Scheme lists out how roads and footpaths should be, development plan of each area. While the plan lists out areas for development, the scheme explains how it should happen.

An official from the Urban Development Department said: "An attempt to prepare the scheme was done in 2017-18, but it was scrapped in 2019 due to political reasons. Bengaluru's last Master Plan was prepared in 2007 — which was the 2015 Master Plan — and it continues even now. The 2031 plan was scrapped. Developments in Mahadevapura zone and other new areas are not part of the 2015 plan. Most developments in Bengaluru are therefore in the absence of a Master Plan and a Master Plan Scheme."

A senior BDA official added that the Authority does not prepare a Master Plan Scheme for the entire city, but only when Layouts are formed. "A scheme has been prepared for Kempegowda Layout, which lists how the Layout should be formed. This is the only one which has been done. Since Outer Ring Road, Peripheral Ring Road or any such mega infrastructure project had not been chalked out, no scheme was prepared. Metro is also not listed. Introduction of Floor Area Ratio for Central Business District areas is also due to lack of a scheme."

CLASS ACT FOR TRIBAL KIDS

One dedicated teacher transforms a remote village and its children

G SUBHASH CHANDRA
@ Chitradurga

FOR Umesh TP, education is a mission. From tutoring tribal children to building infrastructure for their education, he has transformed the hamlet of Amruthapura in Holalkere taluk of Chitradurga. Umesh, 42, a teacher at Amruthapura Government Primary School, richly deserves the Best Teacher National Award, which he won for the year 2022.

Umesh joined the teaching profession in 2004 at Chikkabellari in Ballari district, then taught at Keshavapura School in Holalkere taluk, before joining the government school in Amruthapura, where he has served for the past 12 years. Amruthapur is a remote tribal village which is still off the bus route grid, and people who wish to travel by bus have to walk 5km to reach Chitrahalli Gate, the nearest bus stop.

The area, which has semi-nomadic tribes called Kadu Gollas, had little by way of education. When Umesh landed here, his first priority was to bring in discipline and cleanliness, which he did with great success. He connected with local social workers to collect funds, to ensure that infrastructure like school buildings, kitchen, hall, toilets, library and smart classrooms were successfully introduced for students, who gradually got acquainted with Umesh's methods.

He decided to set up a mini laboratory in the school to instil scientific thinking among the children. For this, he collected used and worn-out scientific apparatus and chemicals from colleges in Chitradurga, and demonstrated experiments to the children.

NGOs contribute to infrastructure

In 2016, a private NGO called OSAAT (One School At A Time), built four well-equipped rooms, toilets for boys and girls at a cost of Rs 30 lakh, 20 desks and 60 reading tables. OSAAT is a non-profit organisation dedicated to rebuilding the infrastructure of rural schools in the country. It was founded by a group of eight IT professionals of Indian origin in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Bengaluru-based Rotary Association got a water filter for children, costing Rs 3 lakh. Along with studies, extra-curricular activities were also supported and a theatre was built at a cost of Rs 3 lakh with the help of local donors. Umesh's friend got three laptops from a donor, which are being used for tech-driven education.

Umesh's success story is evident, with his first batch of students studying postgraduation and some joining government service.

"The school had just 32 children in 2012, and the number increased to 85 children, who come regularly. Our school has more than 2,500 books on a wide spectrum of subjects, including science and technology. We have been imparting education among children with the intention of creating future leaders. Utilisation of the e-learning platform has helped us provide knowledge on a wide range of topics," Umesh told The New Sunday Express.

"I have created assets for society since the past 19 years, and will continue with my journey. Government schools can survive if every teacher ensures that students of his ward and village reach school, and that government schools survive," said Umesh. "As the primary school does not have a laboratory to instil science studies, I decided to visit neighbourhood high schools and the science college, where I collected used beakers and other apparatus and chemicals, which I use for teaching. Many of my students are now studying science in PU," he explained.

Srinivas, BEO of Holalkere, said, "I have been visiting this school for the past 10 years and can testify for its transformation, which has cent per cent attendance and enrolment, and children are good at studies."

IT PROs RAISE FUNDS

Vadiraja Bhat of OSAAT told, "We were IT professionals, and had a team to work on fundraising for charity. But we were not satisfied as no help was being extended to our motherland. That was when we decided to enter the school sector, after interacting with some principals. Pumping funds to improve infrastructure will not help in the overall development of schools. It only gives instant gratification to the donor. This is exactly what the schools require. Our mission is to help rebuild the infrastructure of rural, underprivileged government schools so they can run in a safe and strong environment. We will choose one school at a time." "Government schools in rural areas are old and dilapidated, endangering the lives of children. Their sorry state caught the attention of OSAAT, which has been working to rectify and revive these centres of learning to help rural children," he added.

ROOTED IN WRESTLING

Sharanappa Beleri has been fighting the pushback against sending girls for training before Prema Huchchannavar won a medal. Now, there are 50 girls in his camp

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Gadag

THE action during a wrestling bout is enthralling. Spectators close follow every move of the enormous muscles of the wrestlers as they arm-control each other, and try to prevent getting pinned by the other. In a fraction, one of them has their face against the mat. Wrestling is one of the toughest sports which requires agility, strength, and strategy. But while we see Indian wrestlers winning medals on the international stage, their initial days are spent in rudimentary infrastructure, burnishing their skills in the mud, and the occasional substandard mats.

However, children in Gadag town are enthusiastic about wrestling. Whether it's the Dangal syndrome is yet to be ascertained, but parents in rural areas, who were earlier against sending their girls for training, have now shed their inhibitions, and hope to see their kids as the next champions.

In 2017, there were only eight girls in the wrestling arena in Gadag town, which has now jumped exponentially to 50, who practice with 30 boys every day for national and international competitions.

How did this paradigm shift happen? Prema Huchchannavar and Shahida, among others, bagged innumerable medals on national and international platforms. Prema won the Asian Championship and World Wrestling Championship, which inspired not only other boys and girls but also shattered the mental blocks in the minds of the parents, who began visualising their kids in Prema's position.

When such an opportunity presented itself, coach Sharanappa Beleri was ready to tackle it with both hands. Before the medal rush began, Beleri would spot talents and visit their homes to convince parents to send their kids for training. Many villagers retorted to his arguments, saying that girls should stay indoors as such training is risky for them. But Beleri was unwavering, and finally, convinced eight girls a few years ago to join his camp. Despite financial constraints, Beleri continued to train them. When Huchchannavar came out on top in an international event, residents stopped looking at his training disparagingly.

Now, many are coming forward, not only from Gadag but also from surrounding districts for training, Beleri says, adding, now, it's Dangal 2.0 in Gadag. Twice a day, practice sessions are conducted from 6.30am to 9am and 4.30am to 7.30am, which is extended when competitions approach.

As the number of wrestlers increased, Beleri created groups, and appointed someone, who has won national and international championships, as their leader to assist the newcomers.

Some of the newcomers said, "We have seen the achievements of girls and boys, especially from rural areas, which inspired us to become wrestlers. Our parents have happily sent us for training, and we are also working hard. Some of them joined the training camp six months back, and have won some local and district-level competitions. We dream of winning many medals for the country. Moreover, wrestling makes us fit, and helps in self-defence."

A few parents who were watching their kids wrestle, said, "We are now happy to see that our children are getting good training, and winning medals. Some parents come every day with their kids to the Gadag outdoor stadium on two-wheelers for training. We also thank Sharanappa Beleri for his selfless service as his fee is meager, but he toils day and night to train our kids."

"Earlier, it was difficult to convince parents, but when they saw what some of the girls have achieved, they sent their kids too. I am happy to see that many children come every day, and are doing well. There is a dietary regime in place, as the wrestlers have to be at the peak of their physical fitness. I wish that all students bag medals and Gadag becomes the cynosure of Dangal. My aim is that these children from the Gadag district win Asian and World Championships, and the ultimate goal is a medal in the Olympics," said Beleri.

Discrepancies in NEET results, allege students

DONNA EVA @Bengaluru

THE National Eligibility-cum-Entrance Test (NEET) UG results seem to be a sore point for candidates, with many finding several issues.

Students and parents pointed out that ranks have been assigned without transparency, incorrect questions not given grace marks and discrepancies were found in awarding marks. Some parents said marks have not been awarded equally.

"My daughter wrote the exam. The students had to mark the series of their paper for the benefit of the OMR scanner. While hers was S6, she had accidentally marked it as S7. Her result came out as 172, while we calculated her to get around 550. Another student too has faced the same issue. Instead of 688, she got 43," said HB Vasu, parent of Roshni.

But the same discrepancy has not occurred with other students who committed the same mistake.

"My daughter had marked her paper T8 instead of T6, but her marks were not affected. This problem has occurred only this year. In previous years, the series number was pre-printed and students did not need to mark it themselves. There was no information and it was unclear as to how the students were supposed to mark their series," said A Ramegowda, the parent of another student Chandana.

Atharva Aggarwal, a teacher who coaches students for NEET, said several of her students raised the same issue.

"Many students messaged and contacted me, saying they had major discrepancies in their marks that have gone down by a large margin," he told TNSE.

Students said that one of the questions framed by the National Testing Agency or NTA in the Botany paper was wrong, but no grace marks were given to students.

Though many students wrote to NTA, there has been no reply. "NTA centrally handles the complaints, while local branches are not involved. If students have an issue, they must directly contact the NTA," said Gowri Nataraja, NEET coordinator for Bengaluru.

Have a vision in life: PES chancellor to students

Bengaluru: PES chancellor Dr MR Doreswamy urged students to have a vision in life and contribute to make India great. He was speaking at the seventh annual convocation of PES University on Friday. He said that students must remember the three Ls 'life long learning' to find succeed in their careers. "Unlimited opportunities are available in India. Graduates must know about the lives and contributions of Mahatma Gandhi, Swami Vivekananda and Sir M Visvesvaraya, which will help them to contribute to society," he said.

Doc runs 3 km to perform op in time

DONNA EVA @ Bengaluru

IT was a matter of life and death for a patient. A doctor, who was getting late for his surgery because of the notorious Bengaluru traffic, decided to abandon his car, and run the rest of the distance to the hospital.

Dr Govind Nandakumar, a gastroenterology surgeon, was driving to Manipal Hospital, Sarjapur, to perform an emergency laparoscopic gallbladder surgery. When he was in the last stretch of his journey, he realised he was getting horribly late. "The last stretch usually taken 10 mins. I was stuck in the traffic, getting nervous about being late. I checked Google Maps which showed that it will take another 45 minutes," he told TNSE.

He disembarked the car and decided to cover the rest of the journey running on the Sarjapur-Marathahalli stretch.

"I have a driver, so, I was able to leave the car behind. It was easy for me to run because I gym regularly. I ran three km to hospital, and was in time for the surgery," he said.

However, this is not the first time he has faced such a situation. "I have had to make the journey on foot a few times in other areas of Bengaluru too, sometimes crossing railway lines. I was not anxious since our hospital has adequate staff and infrastructure to take good care of a patient. The situation may not be the same for small hospitals," he said.

"Even patients, their families are anxious waiting for the doctors. What if a patient in an ambulances is stuck in traffic? There was no space even for an ambulance to pass," he told TNSE.

As water recedes, Mahadevapura residents now fear infections

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

AFTER record rain that flooded many homes in Mahadevapura, residents are now afraid that the dirty water from the polluted Bellandur tank and sewage from drains will engender a new spate of infections.

Some areas in Domlur, Bellandur, and its nearby stretches have already complained of foul smell for which the BBMP has already deployed personnel to disinfect the area.

Yatish Gowda, who is into dairy farming in Yamaluru, has around 2 acres of farmland, said the surrounding is emitting a foul smell after water from Bellandur flooded the area, and complained of an increase in mosquito bites over the last few days. "As we stay close to the lakes and wetlands, there has been a rise in mosquito bites after rain and flooding. There were also reports that people are down with fever," said Gowda, and blamed encroachments of drains for flooding and health hazards.

Balagere, Kempapura, and Challaghatta residents are facing the same issues, he added. BBMP senior health inspectors along with other staffers have already undertaken dengue and malaria control measures. "The areas impacted have been identified. The process of disinfection is on over the last three days. About 20 health camps have been set up where migrant workers are being tested. BBMP appeals to those who have fever and cold to come to the camp for treatment," said Dr Trilok Chandra, Special Commissioner, Mahadevapura Zone, adding that demolition of encroachments will be intensified from Monday.

Hospital waste on roads, locals to launch protest

VTU flouting VC appointment rules: Lawyer

DONNA EVA @ Bengaluru

THE Visvesvaraya Technological University (VTU) has flouted rules in appointing vice-chancellors, alleged advocate and former Syndicate member of Rani Channamma University Sandeep Belagali.

The university has failed to update its eligibility criteria following changes to the UGC Regulations in 2010 and 2018. "The said eligibility criteria for appointment of vice-chancellor as stated in the UGC Regulations 2010 and 2018 has been adopted by amending the Karnataka Universities Act and is being followed in the appointment of vice-chancellors of all Universities under Higher Education Department of the State except in the VTU, Belagavi for the reasons best known to the Government," he said in a letter written to the CM, Higher Education Minister and UGC chairman.

The UGC Regulations of 2010 stated, "The vice-chancellor to be appointed should be a distinguished academician with minimum of ten years of experience as professor in a University system or ten years of experience in equivalent position in a reputed research and/or academic administrative organization." In 2018, it was further amended to include "with proof of having demonstrated academic leadership". The VTU Act has not been updated since its creation in 1994 to include either of the new eligibility criteria in the regulations.

The issue comes up as the university started inviting applications for the vice-chancellor from August. The advocate said the notification should be withdrawn.

"I was not aware of the issue, but we will look into it," said V Rashmi, principal secretary for the Higher Education Department, who had been forwarded the letter.

Lokayukta flags lack of staff, infra in hosps

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

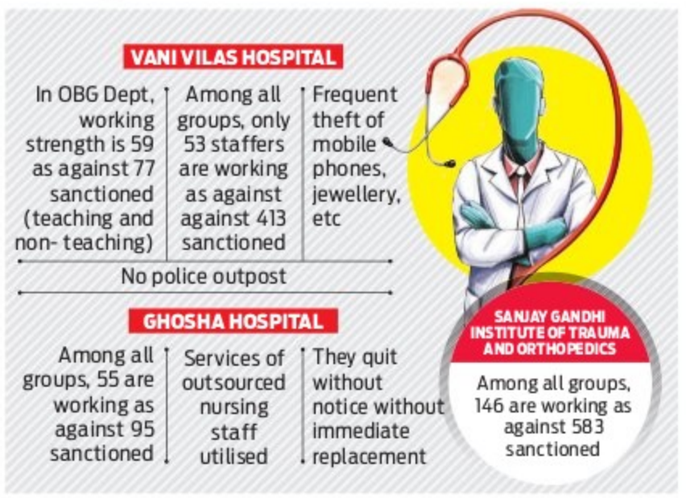
TEAMS of officials from the Karnataka Lokayukta to Vani Vilas Hospital in the city found that there is a staff crunch, which is impeding the service to patients.

There are two nurses who are looking after 60 in-patients, which is causing trouble for new born babies and patients in post natal care.

The Lokayukta report stated that lady doctors are overstressed and burdened as they have to also examine the victims in Pocso cases.

The same doctors also continue the night shifts, and so, there is ineffective handling of in-patients and OPD patients.

There is no dedicated staffer for medical examination of Pocso and rape victims, the report said.



VANI VILAS HOSPITAL
In OBG Dept, working strength is 59 as against 77 sanctioned (teaching and non- teaching)
Among all groups, only 53 staffers are working as against against 413 sanctioned
Frequent theft of mobile phones, jewellery, etc
No police outpost
GHOSHA HOSPITAL
Among all groups, 55 are working as against 95 sanctioned
Services of outsourced nursing staff utilised
They quit without notice without immediate replacement
SANJAY GANDHI INSTITUTE OF TRAUMA AND ORTHOPEDICS
Among all groups, 146 are working as against 583 sanctioned

The team also pointed out other issues like stinking toilets, shortage of space for storing medicines, water seepage through walls, rusted steel cots, overcrowding.

Ghosha Hospital

The team also made a surprise visit to the Ghosha Hospital in Shivajinagar, and found out that there was a staff crunch also, with no proper provisions for OPD patients to wait.

Patients were seen standing outside the hospital building. Construction debris was found on the hospital premises, with dust covering the hospital which could be harmful for the new born babies.

At Sanjay Gandhi Institute of Trauma and Orthopedics, the team found out that there is no proper check on the quality and quantity of the food being prepared and supplied in the canteen by a private contractor.

Meanwhile, Lokayukta Justice BS Patil has initiated suo motu proceedings against the authorities concerned, and directed them to take the required remedies.

1,132 live star tortoises rescued, 4 held

BENGALURU: In a major breakthrough in combating illegal wildlife trade, police have rescued 1,132 star tortoises and arrested four people in Goraguntepalya. The rescued tortoises have been handed over to the Bannerghatta Biological Park. The arrested are Rajpathra, Kalyan, Simhadri and Ishaq. Out of the four, three had kept the tortoises in bags and were trying to sell them to passersby by saying that keeping them at home will bring good luck. Following a tip-off, the RMC Yard police picked the three up for questioning and seized 962 tortoises. Later, the fourth accused was held from Pemmagaripalli and another 170 tortoises were rescued.

Intimate partner violence an emerging global trend: Study

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

QUEST for intimacy is a common phenomenon among human relationships, but that spouses and dating partners, current and former, can end up hurting each other is being observed as a disturbing trend of emerging Intimate Partner Violence (IPV) worldwide. According to a recent Lancet Psychiatry Commission study on 'Intimate Partner Violence and Mental Health: Advancing Mental Health Services, Research and Policy', IPV is emerging as the "most common form of violence worldwide and contributes substantially to the global burden of mental health problems".

Globally, IPV is most commonly experienced by women and girls above 15 years (27%) and is associated with physical, mental, sexual and reproductive health problems, and death (due to homicide and suicide). The paper, co-authored by Prabha Chandra, Professor of Psychiatry, Nimhans, and other international mental health experts, resonates the findings of National Family Health Survey (NFHS)-5, which stated that 29.3% of married Indian women between the ages of 18 and 49 have faced domestic violence or sexual violence. Karnataka tops the chart in NHFS-5 with 44% of married women surveyed in 2019-2021, claiming that they had faced domestic violence, followed by Bihar at 40% and Manipur at 39.6%.

The report, terming IPV as a "public health crisis that has catastrophic effects on individuals, families, and communities", has also highlighted the role of technology in facilitating abuse, including on social media and other online platforms, the installation of stalkerware on personal devices, and manipulation of smart meters, locks and cameras.

"Globally, an estimated 27% of women and girls aged 15 or older have experienced physical or sexual IPV, including sexual and gender minorities, people with disabilities, migrants and people from marginalised ethnic or indigenous groups," it stated.

The experts said exposure to IPV in childhood or adulthood can increase the likelihood of developing mental health problems and suicidal ideation. Though IPV is endemic, mental health experts have stated that it is not "inevitable".

The role of early and stage-specific target interventions in individuals, families, communities and societies, can go a long way to minimise the incidence of this disturbing trend.

NEW SATELLITE TOWNS FOR BENGALURU SOON: BOMMAI

BJP workers and supporters attend the ruling party's Janaspandana programme in Doddaballapura on Saturday | EXPRESS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Doddaballapura (Bengaluru Rural)

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Saturday placed the progress report of one year of his rule and three years of BJP government in Karnataka before a crowd of over three lakh people at Janaspandana here and also listed his government's schemes, especially the 'Raitha Vidhyanidhi'.

He vowed that the Yettinahole irrigation project will be completed soon to supply water to parched Kolar, Chikkaballapur, Bengaluru and Tumakuru districts. "Devanahalli, Nelamangala and Doddaballapur will be developed as satellite towns of IT capital Bengaluru," he declared.

He said that his government has increased the pension to widows and physically-challenged, under social security schemes, including Sandhya Suraksha. The new scholarship schemes are covering over 20 lakh children of weavers and fishermen and with the government grant of Rs 1,042 crore, he added.

New hostels for students from SC/ST and OBC communities, and free 75 units of power to SC/ST and BPL families too found a mention in his speech.

"Congress-ruled states have miserably failed to manage the Covid pandemic, whereas the then chief minister BS Yediyurappa effectively handled the situation by arranging treatment for all and responded to the issue of joblessness too," he claimed.

Bommai said his government is heading towards implementing the New Education Policy, semiconductor policy, industrial policy, R&D policy, and employment policy, as the state must surge ahead in all fields to build 'Nava Bharat' from 'Nava Karnataka'. "The double-engine government, with the blessings of PM Modi, will take the policies of the Centre to the beneficiaries and submit a report to the PM. We will prove that we deserve to rule," he asserted.

Claiming that he has dedicated his entire life for the uplift of farmers, Yediyurappa said, "When the Modi government announced Rs 6,000 as financial aid to every farmer annually, I declared an additional Rs 4,000 from my government. We also implemented the loan waiver for weavers and farmers, the two eyes of the state."

Smriti heaps sedition charge against Rahul

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Doddaballapura

UNION Minister for Women and Child Development and Minority Affairs Smriti Irani on Saturday levelled sedition charges against Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, who has embarked on the party's ambitious 'Bharat Jodo Yatra' from Kanniyakumari to Kashmir, saying, "Rahul has said his fight is now against the Indian state, which has allegedly been using investigative agencies to nail the Opposition."

Rahul had said in Kanniyakumari, "You know the role of CBI, ED and Income Tax Department. Now, the fight is not between one political party and another. It is about the structure of the Indian state. The Opposition and everybody understands this."

Irani, taking part in the Janaspandana yatra here organised by BJP to celebrate three years of the party government in power, said, "With all seriousness, I am making this charge of 'Rashtra Droh' (sedition), as I am shocked at Rahul's statement that he is fighting against the Indian state. You have been waging a war against India for your hunger for power."

The Amethi MP, making an indirect reference to Kanhaiya Kumar, criticised Rahul for being in the company of people who allegedly chanted anti-India slogans. "Rahul is on his way to unite India, but he should answer first who dared to break India," she added.

She questioned as to why Congress, which was an alliance partner in the Shiv Sena-led Maharashtra government, did not condemn the beautification of terrorist Yakub Memon's grave with marble tiles in Mumbai.

Attacking the Gandhi family, she said that when the Centre was fighting the Covid pandemic and succeeded in developing an indigenous vaccine, the family was spreading lies by advising people not to take the vaccines. She also slammed Congress supporters for allegedly using derogatory remarks against President Droupadi Murmu.

She said Congress could not digest the placing of freedom fighter Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose's statue on Kartavya Path in New Delhi, as the party did not issue any statement favouring the move. "Rahul did not pay homage to the statue of Swami Vivekananda at Kanniyakumari as the latter was not a member of his family's followers. He also removed photos of the country's first deputy prime minister Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel from its campaign, she added.

First state how much spent on Siddaramotsava, KSE taunts Siddu

ENS @ Shivamogga

SLAMMING former chief minister and CLP leader Siddaramaiah for criticising BJP's Janaspandana programme, BJP MLA KS Eshwarappa on Saturday said that the former should first furnish details of the expenses borne during Siddaramaiah's 75th birth anniversary, Siddaramotsava. He further alleged that Siddaramaiah was criticising Janaspandana, being unable to digest the response it has received. Speaking to reporters after laying the foundation for a commercial complex in Gandhi Nagar on Saturday, Eshwarappa claimed that Rs 75 crore was collected to organise Siddaramotsava.

"Let Siddaramaiah give the details of expenditure, and reveal who funded the event. Let him reveal where and how the money was spent and how much was paid to people for attending the event," he said.

Eshwarappa further attacked the Congress, claiming that after Siddaramotsava, the grand old party was overconfident as if it had actually come to power. "The BJP keeps conducting such programmes. When PM Narendra Modi visited Mangaluru recently, people turned up in large numbers," he added.

PASSENGERS IN LURCH, AS MOST BUSES BOOKED FOR JANASPANDANA

Kolar KSRTC bus-stand

KOLAR/CHIKKABALLAPUR: Passengers were forced to wait a long time to catch buses to their destinations on Saturday, since several state-owned KSRTC buses were reportedly booked by BJP leaders for the Janotsava programme in Doddaballapur. It was a harrowing wait for people headed to Bengaluru from Kolar and Chikkaballapur. Even students were forced to wait for more than two hours, and when left with no other option, they made their way in autos or took lifts from bikes. A few families also hired taxis to reach the state capital. According to a KSRTC official, 50 per cent of the buses were booked by the BJP leaders, which caused shortage, even as 65 per cent of private buses and a majority of taxis were also engaged for the programme. ENS

With Modi as PM, Congress can't come to power: BSY

FORMER chief minister and veteran BJP leader B S Yediyurappa said both Siddaramaiah and D K Shivakumar were daydreaming of getting the CM gaddi just like a mother weaves a cap before a child is born ('koosu huttuva munna kulavi' in Kannada). "Until Modi is the Prime Minister, the Congress cannot come back to power in the state. We will tour the entire state and win 150 seats for the BJP to form the government again", he said.

BJP state president Nalinkumar Kateel urged the CM to order a probe into the denotification of Arkavathy Layout scam. "If the probe is ordered, Siddaramaiah will land somewhere else (an indirect reference to jail)", he said.

BJP national general secretary C T Ravi alleged that KPCC president D K Shivakumar was also involved in a scam related to construction of a solar park at Pavagada when he was the energy minister.

SUNDAY INTERVIEW

ASHWINI M SRIPAD

OPPOSITION parties are planning to corner the state government on corruption issues, including the alleged 40 per cent commission sought from contractors, during the legislature sessions starting from Monday. Members from Congress and JDS will try to put the government on the mat over other issues too, including the failing law and order situation across the state and flooding of Bengaluru. Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister JC Madhu Swamy said the government is prepared to give a befitting response to the issues taken up by the Opposition.

If it is proposed during the Business Advisory Committee (BAC) meeting, we can consider allowing a discussion on floods during the session as the entire state is affected

JC Madhu Swamy, Law Minister

Is the government bringing any new bills this time?
Yes, there are seven to eight bills and a few ordinances which will be tabled during the session. We hope that these pieces of legislation will be passed in both Houses smoothly.

With floods creating havoc, will there be any special discussion on floods?
If this is proposed during the Business Advisory Committee (BAC) meeting, we can consider allowing a discussion on floods during the session as the entire state is affected.

The Opposition is all set to corner the government on various issues, including allegations of corruption and law and order situation. What is the government's strategy?
We are always prepared to answer any of their issues. We are here to answer them. Students who study the entire year need not have to make special preparations before exams. We are not those students who study for exams. We will give a befitting and apt reply.

The contractors' association made serious allegations against the government and that issue is also expected to be taken up by Congress legislators...
We have a lot of information about corruption in their government. If we reveal that, it will be big. We will limit it to a certain level and defend (the government). If they (Congress) try to make it big, they will reap what they sow. Our decision on this is based on what they raise.

In Bommai's government, at present, there are six berths vacant. Will this be a burden during the session as there are no ministers for some portfolios, while some ministers have a lot of departments?
There will be no issues as department officials prepare the replies. On the remaining issues, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai will take a decision. He might have some parallel arrangements for that.

During every session, legislators complain about officials not present during the discussions. What do you have to say?
This time, I am insisting that the officials have to be present in their seats. Whoever has been allotted that particular hour and day has to be present. But sometimes, with sessions on in both Houses, it will be a problem for them to be present in both Houses and organise systematically. When such a situation arises, we cannot be focusing only on the allotment or timetable of these officials.

Another major concern is the absence of legislators or them not coming on time. Why no action is taken against them?
We will see if something is done this time. We will discuss it with the CM as he is the chairman of the legislature party. If the legislature party meeting is called, he can advise the members to be regular and punctual.

Will it be a stormy session as it has been called after six months?
There is no storm, it will just be a normal session.

Janaspandana being held using graft money: Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hubballi, Bagalkot

CONGRESS Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah on Saturday alleged that the BJP government is holding the Janaspandana rally using corruption money. The real Janaspandana (connecting with people) would have been to respond to the plight of people who are badly affected by floods across the state, he said.

Crops in seven lakh hectares are lost, but farmers have not got compensation. Roads were inundated and rainwater gushed into houses in Bengaluru. The government has the least concern for the people and their problems. "Will the people approve of the rally amid these miseries," he asked.

Leader of Opposition in the Assembly Siddaramaiah during a visit to flood-hit areas in Badami on Saturday | EXPRESS

Stating that Janaspanadana is in reply to his birthday celebration (Siddaramotsava), he said the people conducted and attended his rally voluntarily, while BJP leaders are using the government machinery and corruption money to hold their rally. It is also wrong to hold the rally soon after the death of minister Umesh Katti, he remarked.

Lashing out at the government for not making any effort to mitigate the misery of flood-affected people, he said the district in-charge minister has not visited the affected areas. During the Congress government, encroachments were removed, Raja Kaluves cleaned and lakes desilted, but the present government has stopped all such projects. It is responsible for the deteriorating situation, especially in Bengaluru, he charged.

On BJP's allegations of denotification of land in Arkavathy Layout in Bengaluru, he said, "I am neither afraid of the BJP government nor its leaders. Why was the government silent all these days?"

MLA Preetam, Revanna fight over new plan for Hassan airport

UDAYA KUMAR BR @ Hassan

FIVE decades after it was proposed, the Hassan airport project has landed in a controversy with a tussle breaking out between leaders of two political parties on whether the old plan or the revised one should be implemented.

Hassan BJP MLA Preetam J Gowda and former minister HD Revanna took it as a matter of prestige and attacked each other. Revanna strongly objected to the revised plan that was proposed recently, while Preetam wants the new plan, for which the district administration has earmarked 540 acres as against 960 acres acquired in 2006.

Revanna urged Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai to stick to the earlier plan. "The government should not insult former prime minister HD Deve Gowda who had laid the foundation stone for the project," he said.

Suspecting the hand of the high and mighty behind the change, Revanna alleged that the state government has deliberately revised the plan and proposes to build the airport on 460 acres at Bhuvanahalli, near here. But, he said, the land may be insufficient for the runway and landing of even small flights. It is better to develop the airport as per an MoU signed with Jupiter Aviation under Design Build Operate and Transfer basis, he added. The prospects of small cities like Hassan will change once such projects are implemented. The original proposal included an aviation training centre, maintenance, repair and overhauling (MRO), inland container centre, golf course, hospitality and welfare centre, technology park and connecting roads, he said. Angry Revanna said the then government had also sanctioned Rs 200 crore for the project and Rs 5 crore was allegedly given as bribe to a minister. His name will be revealed at the right time. JDS will decide the future course of action after a discussion with leaders and workers if the government fails to execute the project as per the previous plan, he added.

Kiran, vice-president of the District Small-Scale Industries Association said political leaders should set their differences aside in the interest of the district. "It is better to complete the project as per the DPR prepared in 2006," he added.

Condemning the war of words between Preetam and Revanna, progressive thinkers Navin, Kirhore and Narayana said development works will be hampered if leaders take up them as prestige issues. They should set their ego aside while implementing the projects that play a vital role in developing the district, they added development of the district they added.

Slams BJP over T-shirt

He hit out at BJP leaders for discussing the price of Rahul Gandhi's T-shirt. "Let them discuss Rahul's T-shirt, trousers, or room, but they cannot stop his 3,500-km yatra. He is not wearing a Rs 10-lakh suit," Shivakumar said, responding to a question on criticism that Gandhi was wearing a Rs-41,000 T-shirt.

To help investors reduce the start-up period and capital investment, the Tamil Nadu government is constructing a 'Ready Built Factory' in Sipcot Industrial Park in Nemmeli, Chennai. Officials said it will be constructed in four phases on 205 acres earmarked for the project

RAHUL'S YATRA CROSSES FROM TN TO KERALA

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi leads the Bharat Jodo Yatra in Kanniyakumari district on Saturday | EXPRESS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@T'Puram, Kanniyakumari

WHEN former Congress president Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra enters Kerala on Sunday morning, the party state leadership has to mobilise Rs 5 crore. It is required for arranging the logistics which includes travel, food, accommodation and other expenses for the people during the 19-day-long padayatra in the state. It is definitely going to be a daunting task for the leadership, especially MP Kodikunnil Suresh who is the state coordinator of the padayatra.

On the eve of the yatra reaching the Kerala border, the Congress state headquarters in Thiruvananthapuram was abuzz with activities similar to the election days. The leaders and ordinary party workers are aware about the crucial role of BJY in the 2024 Lok Sabha polls.

Senior Congress MP Benny Behanan told TNIE that the public support towards the BJY in Tamil Nadu had exceeded his expectations. "Similarly, once it reaches Kerala, the party workers and local people are going to be energised. Party sympathisers are also keen to see the revival of the Congress. The booth committees have been getting lots of queries from local people on the padayatra. These are all welcome changes," said Behanan.

Sudhakaran, Satheesan and a plethora of senior Congress MPs, legislators and other leaders will receive Rahul Gandhi at Parassala at 7am on Sunday.

Meanwhile, the yatra crossed the Kerala border on Saturday evening after four days in Tamil Nadu. On concluding the Tamil Nadu leg of the yatra, Rahul Gandhi tweeted, "Today, as we enter the beautiful state of Kerala, on the auspicious occasion of Sree Narayana Guru Jayanthi, his words inspire every step we take."

Tamil Nadu Chief Minister MK Stalin had kick started the Bharat Jodo Yatra by handing over the National Flag to Rahul Gandhi at the Gandhi Mandam in Kanniyakumari on Wednesday.

YATRA POLITICS, DEFIANT STOCKS, SORROW AND SIGHS

THE THIRD EYE

SHANKKAR AIYAR
Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India
shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com

COME September! The fall season, it would seem, is also the time to rise. The onset of autumn has been frenetic as events tripped and trailed headlines across time zones, colouring rhetoric and reflections, leaving the plebeians, politicos and pashas agog. In a week in which the Indian National Congress attempts to reincarnate history when stock markets dare and defy central bankers and as parts of the world soak in sorrow and sighs, a few observations.

Like, the expedition by the Congress Party, the idea of the 3500-plus km Bharat Jodo Yatra, from Kanyakumari to Kashmir, covering 12 states, is a page from the past. It is nearly a decade since his anointment as the heir apparent in 2013 and Rahul Gandhi continues to add chapters to his discovery of India.

The aspiration: "I will get some understanding about myself and this beautiful country from Yatra, and in these 2-3 months, I will be wiser." The party is trekking along hoping to find that idea which will revive the leader and the party.

Like, the archives of Independent India's politics is replete with instances of yatra politics – for instance, N T Rama Rao pioneered the idea of 'rath yatra' in 1982, Chandrashekhar walked to challenge Indira Gandhi in 1983, Rajiv Gandhi travelled across India to reclaim power in 1990, and L K Advani rode the chariot from Somnath to Ayodhya.

History shows the travels haven't always taken the travellers to the destination. Whether the yatra connects the party with the people or the party with the leader there is no disputing that RaGa has aggregated attention even if momentarily.

Like, it is all fine to punctuate air time and populate column space. To expand market share, the Congress must travel from convenient ambivalence to political purpose, find that one idea and an organisation to mobilise mass affiliation. Does RaGa have a signature tune? The party which was in power when liberalisation was unleashed is yet to come to terms with an open economy and struggles to articulate the right or the left way. As Sharad Pawar quipped, 'The Congress is like an impoverished landlord sans land in a crumbling haveli!' There is the absence of an idea, and then there is the incapacity of the party.

Like, it is not Rahul Gandhi alone who is attempting to reinvent relevance. JD-U leader and Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar, the master of u-turns, once the dark horse of 2014, is back on the trail positioning himself as the 'possible' national alternative for 2024. His travels to Delhi have seen him parleying with AAP chief Arvind Kejriwal, NCP leader Sharad Pawar and SP's Akhilesh Yadav, among others.

Like the answer to the question of 'Modi vs who' in 2024 is unclear but the collegium of the affected seem to be coalescing around the idea of a common front. In Kolkata, Mamata Banerjee issued the clarion call 'Khela Hobey' (game on) and declared the formation of a front with Nitish Kumar along with JMM chief and Jharkhand CM Hemant Soren. It is argued that Nitish Kumar has the 'Hindi' belt advantage, but the crux is that any 'third front' requires a critical mass of over 150 seats. The numbers are yet to add up.

Like, the seasonal convulsions in alliance politics are possibly explained by the regional satraps sensing an opportunity in the dismal economic forecasts caused by spiralling inflation across the world. As this column observed, the world is poised at the brink of a recession as central banks hike interest rates to curb inflation and protect currencies.

India is definitely better placed both on inflation and growth, but it is by no means decoupled from the impact of rising interest rates and falling growth. The need for fiscal response, articulated recently by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, along with RBI's monetary policy, underlines potential risks.

Like, it would seem the stock markets are in a parallel universe. Notwithstanding growth downgrades and clear indications of falling earnings, stock indices have been rising across the globe, including the Nifty50 in India. On Friday, the US indices S&P 500, Nasdaq 100 and DJIA closed higher. In Germany, which is clearly heading for a recession, stocks bounced off a double bottom. Yes, oil prices are lower, but inflation is still way higher than tolerance levels in India, US, UK and Europe. The rise challenges denials by central banks of any pause or pivot. It is as if the market is telling central bankers it knows better!

Like the passing away of Queen Elizabeth II has triggered an outpouring of sorrow – even from those countries which faced the darkness of British colonialism. The ascension of Prince Charles as King Charles III, which has triggered sighs amongst many, comes at a critical intersection. Britain is yet dealing with Brexit which is stalled at the gate. Double digit inflation has unleashed cost of living crisis resulting in one of the biggest subsidy programmes on energy. Will the king stay neutral like his mother or will the once passionate voice on green policies be heard?

Finally, it is worth noting that between them, governments in Europe and the UK will spend well over $500 billion in direct subvention in the next 12 months to protect consumers. The massive spend opens up the space for debate on the future of the role of the state of governments in mitigating the consequences of crises. And more may follow. As the adage goes, welcome to interesting times.

MUSCULAR NATIONALISM, PUGNACIOUS BHARAT

POWER & POLITICS

A nation comes of age when history reconciles the past with the present seamlessly for a roadmap for the future. A war is going on in India's collective memory between Our History vs Their History. This conflict has birthed warring ideologies of Subjective Nationalism and Muscular Nationalism. The turning point was when Narendra Modi became India's 15th prime minister in 2014. Since then he has been relentlessly erasing the subjectively interpretative description and portrayal of India's heritage and recasting its struggles against Mughal tyranny and colonial cravenness. Writing in 'Crowds and Power,' Elias Canetti outlines the difference between the mass and the elite: the former unites to disagree or agree on a subject while the latter agrees or disagrees on the subject, but for different reasons. The Modi era has midwifed a new Indian elite, which doesn't tolerate mementos of India's enslaved past. The names of the cities and institutions are being changed. New icons are being fleshed out in the fields of culture, art, religion, social work and even the Independence movement that fit the current narrative. His mission is loud and clear: exile the pluralistic present into the dishonourable past to create a purely Native Now. For secularists, India's present and the conception of the Congress are concurrent events. The nationalists share the BJP's vision of India's past as a terrain of saints, social reformers, poets, authors and warriors who were martyred protecting the motherland centuries ago. The past is now the property of the Modified dispensation that firmly believes that the Congress and its fellow travellers converted India into an inferior nation that sought endorsement and alms from foreigners. The fatal flaw in the Congress dogma is that the national leadership was the sole property of Nehru and the Gandhis. Modi wants to change this perception. He believes that his bête noire shrunk India's geography by promoting the Partition and, worse, expelling other players from the subjectivity of the Congress-led freedom struggle.

Last week, Modi decisively reminded Indians that the Nehru-Gandhi parivar grabbed the credit for India's Independence from Muscular Nationalists who aggressively opposed British rule. A 28-feet tall statue of Subhas Chandra Bose, India's best known military leader, has come up at India Gate. Modi told the nation, "In the last eight years, we have taken many such decisions one after the other, which are imprinted with the ideals and dreams of Netaji. Netaji Subhash was the first head of Akhand Bharat, who freed Andaman before 1947 and hoisted the Tricolor." And he defined the contours of New India as "we are filling the picture of tomorrow with new colours, leaving behind the past".

The Akhand Bharat terminology is notable since it is the Sangh's pan-Asian trope. The parivar to which Modi belongs has been swedging against the Congress propaganda as India's singular saviour. Their seven decade old grouse is against the narrative that promotes fake liberalism, slavish secularism and amplifying the family cult. While the BJP has retained Mahatma Gandhi as one of India's greatest leaders, it is purging the Nehruvian model of politics and governance from the national mainstream. From 2014 onwards, it is adopting and promoting other leaders like Patel, Veer Savarkar, Baba Sahib Ambedkar, et al. to minimise the spread of the dynastic political pandemic. Its emphasis has always been on personalities who defied the Congress and the Mughals with either weapons or wisdom. Bose is one such credible alternative icon. Promoting the INA's founder is a politically correct action that puts in perspective militant nationalism which could have prevented Partition. Modi's sights have been on West Bengal for a while now—the BJP needs an ideological mascot to challenge Mamata Banerjee's domination of the voter gestalt. Modi started to aggressively market Bose in 2018. To commemorate the 75th Anniversary of the proclamation of the Azad Hind Provisional government, the PM hoisted the Indian national flag on Red Fort. Wearing an INA cap, he took a dig at the Congress: "In an effort to highlight the role of one family, efforts were made to deliberately ignore and forget contributions made by others in the independence struggle and later in creating a new India,...But our government is changing all that." His government declassified numerous Bose related documents. Such actions dovetail with the Sangh's belief in Bose as the most powerful proponent of a militarised struggle against colonialism.

Bose isn't the only militant nationalist the Centre has adopted. During the past decade, the BJP has showcased pre-Congress and Mughal era heroes who have been just footnotes in history textbooks. Shivaji is one such prominent national idol who fought the Mughals and won. Though confined to Maharashtra, the Modi government placed him in the company of national figures, and named institutions after him. In March, Modi unveiled a 9.5 feet-tall statue of Shivaji in Pune. Inaugurated by the prime minister, the Indian Navy unveiled a new Naval insignia that proudly displays the octagonal seal of the erstwhile Maratha kingdom while commissioning the INS Vikrant, India's first indigenously built aircraft carrier— a metaphor for Atma Nirbhar. A statement by the Indian Navy explained: "The twin octagonal borders draw their inspiration from Shivaji Maharaj Rajmudra or the Seal of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj, one of the prominent Indian kings with a visionary maritime outlook, who built a credible Naval Fleet that earned grudging admiration from European Navies operating in the region at the time."

Besides Shivaji, Modi is exalting Laxmi Bai, the Hindu queen of Jhansi, as a brave Bharatiya naari who took up arms and sacrificed her life in a battle against the British. Just before the UP Assembly elections, he travelled to Jhansi, where he vowed to develop the backward Bundelkhand region—the Rani's karma bhumi—as India's only defence corridor. Celebrating the valorous sacrifices of forgotten heroes, the BJP is projecting the image of India as neither submissive nor defensive. Various cultural bodies and Bollywood are being nudged to glorify Indian heritage and heroes. Over half a dozen documentaries, about 50 books and numerous feature films have been liberally financed by the establishment and its admirers. The aggressive new depiction of the leonine national symbol reflects Modi's Muscular Bharat, where mock modesty has no place. Confrontation for a Cause, at the risk of sounding divisive, is the new normal. As the Congress marches to its own drum in a countrywide padayatra, Modi is beating the drums of war in his battle against history's mistakes artistically stored and preserved in archives and museums.

MIKE JEMPSON
London-based journalist and Director, The MediaWise Trust

THE death of Queen Elizabeth II has inevitably brought about wall to wall tributes across the media to a woman who symbolised the notion of public service not just to Britain but around the world. Peel back the emotional displays and rhetoric, however, and we see the infantilising effect of monarchy in a democratic age, and the remnants of entitlement that infects so many British attitudes.

On her 21st birthday in 1947, speaking by radio from Cape Town she urged listeners to "go forward together with an unwavering faith... to make this ancient commonwealth, an even grander thing - more free, more prosperous, more happy and a more powerful influence for good in the world - than it has been in the greatest days of our forefathers".

She declared that her "whole life whether it be long or short shall be devoted to your service and the service of our great imperial family to which we all belong". She would certainly keep her part of the bargain so far as service was concerned, but many would now query how 'great' the days of Empire had been, especially now the world has moved on.

Only months later the Britain passed the Independence of India Act, but it was another three years before India could formally shake off the trammels of Empire to become a secular republic. Hackles may still rise on the subcontinent when people realise that the Kohinoor diamond with its disputed provenance will adorn the crown worn by the new king's consort Camilla at his forthcoming coronation.

Although Britain flexed its muscles in Palestine, Korea and Malaya in the 1950s, gradually its world domination fell away during the queen's long reign. Once Britain was humiliated by General Nasser in the Suez Crisis of 1956, the domino effect was inevitable.

The desire for self-determination was evident as the "wind of change" swept through Africa in the 1960s and the monarch's plenipotentiaries were despatched far and wide to run the Union Jack down flagpoles.

The new king will reign over only 15 territories, including the UK. Even the 56 member Commonwealth of Nations has lost its British tag.

But no amount of pomp and ceremony can disguise the fact that the UK is riven, and not just by the divisions caused by the disaster Brexit turned out to be.

In England alone less than 1 per cent of the population own and control more than half the land. The Crown owns a massive portfolio of properties, artworks and jewellery. Since 1992 the monarch pays tax on personal earnings, but the public purse shells out more than £86million a year in a Sovereign Grant to cover all household, maintenance and travel expenses.

The huge disparity between the rich and poor is widening, with poverty far greater in the north of England than the South East.

Meanwhile the calls for Scottish independence get louder by the day, with another referendum promised next year, and the Welsh Parliament has become increasingly self-assured. On the island of Ireland Sinn Fein, the republican party, is scheduled to become the biggest political party again, north and south.

One of the most notable achievements of the queen was her gracious acknowledgement in 2012 of Northern Ireland's Deputy First Minister Martin McGuinness, a former commander in the Irish Republican Army which in 1979, had assassinated her uncle, Earl Mountbatten, the architect of Partition in India.

McGuinness saw it as a significant contribution to the peace process. He called her a "remarkable woman.... I hold her in great esteem for doing something that can't have been easy for her."

In a conciliatory speech during a visit to Dublin a year earlier she spoke of "the painful legacy" of Anglo-Irish relations, and when asked later about greeting McGuinness, her answer was very British: "Of course, I shook his hand. It would be awkward not to."

Her equanimity and her sense of humour were perhaps her most winning characteristics. She would have needed both to survive in the dysfunctional households she presided over, according to former palace official Malcolm Barker. His Courting Disaster, a 1990 book banned in Britain, is a hair-raising account of corruption and sexual misconduct. One of the less shocking incidents was the night a drunken page boy tumbled down stairs and floored the queen as she made her way to bed.

Elizabeth famously called 1992 her 'annus horribilis' after a fire at Windsor Castle, the divorces of two of her children, and revelations in Diana: Her True Story that her son Charles was in a long-term extra-marital affair with Camilla Parker-Bowles.

But there were other such years. In the 1980s two of her cousins, reportedly dead, turned out to be alive. Katherine and Nerissa Bowes-Lyon had been consigned to the Royal Earlswood Institution for Mental Defectives in 1941, along with three other cousins, Etheldreda, Idonea and Rosemary Fane. Imagine what a difference it might have made to the lives of so many if the royal family had accepted these relatives instead of locking them away.

More recently the scandal of Prince Andrew's association with under-age girls would cost her dearly. But none of this appeared to dent her personal reputation, and she remained welcome around the world.

Unlike her great-great grandmother Victoria, the Empress of India, who never visited the country, the queen made three trips. In 1961 she spent weeks traveling the subcontinent with her husband. She was back in 1983 for a Commonwealth Summit. During her final visit in 1997 to celebrate the 50th anniversary of Independence she touched on one of the many massacres by British troops in colonial days. "[H]istory cannot be rewritten," she said "however much we might sometimes wish otherwise. It has its moments of sadness, as well as gladness. We must learn from the sadness and build on the gladness."

That might serve as a fitting epitaph for a woman who clearly touched the hearts of many, even those who would prefer to see the monarchy abolished.

This letter is in relation to the article Two years on, journalist Kappan gets bail (Sept 10). His case is seen by many experts as an example of a vindictive prosecution without substantial evidence and purposeful abuse of Indian law. It is tragic that he was treated like a terrorist and deprived of his essential human rights. When granting him bail, Chief Justice of India U.U. This is with reference to 'Stalin fortifying his image as opposition connector for 2024' (Sep. 10). Stalin is a blind follower of Congress. Kabil Sibal and Ghulam Nabi Azad quitting the Congress should have been eye opener for Stalin. The BJP is not an untouchable party. When M. I believe that good sense will prevail on Stalin to support BJP in 2024 Lok Sabha election.

Adopt strays

Animal lovers do not want anyone to hurt stray dogs. However, they do not mind if the stray dogs hurt or kill human beings. If the animal lovers are so fond of stray dogs, why don't they adopt them? However, it is clearly a false love for these animals. These animal lovers are in fact enemies of human beings, particularly young children who are falling prey to stray dogs. Let each animal lover adopt five dogs, which will mean that there will not be any more stray dogs on the streets.

India, Saudi embark on 'partnership' voyage

With Jaishankar visiting Kingdom, there could be a possibility of another grouping with Saudi Arabia, say experts

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

As India's Minister of External Affairs S Jaishankar starts his visit to saudi Arabia, the focus is back on growing India-Saudi relatioship. Both the countries have begun to view each other as strategic and economic partners. Saudi Arabia is India's fourth largest trading, partner and bilateral trade stood at $42.68 billion in 2021. With strong economic and strategic ties geopolitics could facilitate the formation of a new grouping like the Quad.

"Saudi Investments in India are to the tune of $3.13 billion. With the strengthening of relationship betweeen the two countries, which improved after PM Modi went to Riyadh in 2019, there could be a possibility of another grouping with Saudi Arabia. India already has a trilateral grouping with UAE and Israel and the I2U2 which includes the US,'' say sources.

Major Saudi investment groups include Aramco, Sabic, Zamil, E-Holidays and Al Batterjee Group. Additonally, Soft Bank's 'Vision Fund' has invested in Indian start-ups like Delhivery, FirstCry, Grofers, Ola, Paytm and PolicyBazaar.

India's ties with Saudi Arabia began to improve when Crown Prince Mohammad bin Salman visited Delhi in February 2019 and in October the same year Prime Minister Narendra Modi visited Riyadh at the invitation of King Salman. This led to the formation of a Strategic Partnership Council (SPC) which focussed on four areas — political, security, socio-cultural relations and defence cooperation. Meanwhile, Jaishankar, has flown directly from Tokyo (where he had gone to attend the second 2+2 with Japan) to Riyadh today to have a comprehensive review of bilateral relationship with Saudi Arabia. "Dr Jaishankar will co-chair a ministerial meeting of the Committee on Political, Security, Social and Cultural Cooperation (PSSC) under the SPC. His counterpart from Saudi Arabia Prince Faisal bin Farhan Al Saud will be present in the meeting. Cooperation in defence, UN, G20 and GCC will also be discussed,'' according to the Ministry of External Affairs.

Jaishankar on Saturday met Indian diaspora. There are close to 3.5 million Indians living in Riyadh. Traditionally, India and Saudi Arabia have been contributing to each others' economies. India imports between 18 to 20 per cent of its crude from there and 30 per cent of its LPG requirement. Indian workforce constitutes nearly 2.6 million of the expats living there and over $8 billion flows in as remittances. Meanwhile, the Saudi sovereign Public Investment Fund (PIF) has made investments worth $1.5 billion in Reliance's Jio and $1.3 billion in Reliance Retail Ventures Limited in 2020. Reliance Industries has appointed Aramco's Chairman (and PIF Governor), Yasir Al-Rumayyan, to its board.

K K SHAILAJA

A TEACHER WHO ROSE TO BECOME COVID SLAYER

ANIL S @ T'Puram

SOURAV ROY

IT is not for the first time that K K Shailaja is hitting national headlines. If she is now in news for declining the prestigious Ramon Magsaysay award, she was in news earlier when she was hailed as the "Corona virus Slayer" even by international media organisations like The Guardian.

While the rest of the world was yet to take serious note of the the onset of a soon-to-rage pandemic that would subsequently cause the death of more than 6.5 million across the globe, a tiny state on India's southern tip was already combat-ready to fight the virus. There was an alert woman behind this — K K Shailaja, the then Health Minister of Kerala.

The reports from Wuhan about the new virus which was spreading like wildfire had caught the attention of Shailaja, who had just then successfully contained the spread of the deadly Nipah virus outbreak. The moment she read the news from China, she alerted her team to get ready. So when Kerala reported the first ever case of covid in the country, the health department in the state was well prepared. Shailaja put in place an effective contingency plan. It was her foresight that led to Kerala addressing the first phase of the pandemic effectively.

Her ability to communicate with the public so as to not let panic set in, while simultaneously ensuring effective containment, garnered global attention, with a slew of global media including the BBC praising the Kerala model. She was even honoured by the United Nations for her efforts in addressing the pandemic.

A former High School Physics teacher, Shailaja entered politics through SFI and rose through the ranks in the CPM and is now a central committee member. A fourth time MLA, she is also a central committee member of the All India Democratic Women's Association. However, it was the Nipah and covid episodes that brought out the real leader in her. Her popularity increased manifold thereafter. In the 2021 polls, she won from Mattannur constituency, a CPM bastion, with a margin of 60,963 votes, the largest electoral margin ever in the state assembly history.

However , the CPM denied her a cabinet berth citing the 'single-term norm for ministers'. This was widely perceived as an attempt by the party and Pinarayi to cut her down to size, before she apparently got too big for her boots. This decision had drawn criticism from all quarters. Many pointed out her crucial role in the Left government coming back to power for the second consecutive term — a first in the history of Kerala. Shailaja, instead, was made the Chief Whip in the Assembly and Shailaja, without any sulking, had been discharging the duty quite efficiently.

So when the party told her to decline the prestigious Magsaysay Award, Shailaja, being a true party cadre, did not have to think twice. The party's argument was that she sould not receive an award in the name of a known anti-Communist leader, especially in her individual capacity. However, a prominent section within the Left and the general society termed it sheer hypocrisy and a significant blunder, as a recognition on the scale of a Magsaysay award could have well been a much needed boost for the Left movement in the country. No wonder, the rejection of the prestigious award has kicked up quite a row. While some insist that CPM would have gladly lapped up the recognition had it been bestowed on the CM or the Kerala government, some even sees CM Pinarayi Vijayan's jealousy towards a better performer behind the party decision to reject the award. There are even a few who predict that Shailaja is on her way out of the party given the jealousy quotient of the party top brass. But party insiders pooh-pooh these allegations and insist that the CPM sees her as a trump card for winning the next Assembly elections. The 65-year old Kannur leader could well be Kerala CPM's face, in the post-Pinarayi era.

Ace excavator who unearthed history, ancient civilisation

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

ARCHEOLOGISTS and his colleagues at the Archeological Survey of India (ASI) remembered veteran archeologist professor Braj Bansi Lal, who passed away on Saturday at the age of 101, as a 'great personality' and 'passionate excavator'. Among his several path-breaking findings are related to excavations conducted at Mahabharata site in Hastinapur (Uttar Pradesh) and Kalibangan belonging to Indus Valley civilisation in Rajasthan.

In 1976-77, Prof Lal claimed to have discovered columns of Hindu temple at Ram janambhoomi-Babri Masjid site in Ayodhya. He served as the director general of the ASI from 1968 to 1972. He was conferred Padma Bhushan in 2000 and India's second highest civilian award, Padma Vibhushan in 2021. "Pof Lal was a great personality, archeologist and a passionate excavator. He would say an archeologist is a pathologist. Excavation is like a postmortem, which ascertains the cause of death. Similarly through excavation, you have to tell what it is," said KK Muhammed, former Regional Director of the ASI.

Muhammed was part of Lal's team who carried out archeological digging in the periphery of Babri Masjid, which was demolished in 1992. Prime Minister Narendra Modi paid rich tributes to Lal, saying that he would be remembered as a great intellectual who "deepened our connect with our rich past".

"Shri B B Lal was an outstanding personality. His contributions to culture and archaeology are unparalleled. He will be remembered as a great intellectual who deepened our connect with our rich past. Pained by his demise. My thoughts are with his family and friends. Om Shanti," Modi tweeted.

According to the website of Indian Institute of Technology (IIT) Kanpur, Lal also conducted many excavations in and around the world including in Egypt, which threw light on Egyptian prehistory.

"Prof Lal publications include over 150 seminal research papers, published in scientific journals, both in India and abroad. He authored books The Earliest Civilization of South Asia (1997); India 1947-1997: New Light on the Indus Civilization (1998). In 1994 Prof Lal was awarded D. Litt (Honoris causa) by the Institute of Archaeology, St. Petersburg, Russia. He has been the Chairman and member of several committees of UNESCO," the portal states.

Seeking transfer of case undermines judge, hampers delivery of justice: SC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court recently observed that seeking transfer of the case by levelling allegation against the judicial officer that order has been passed under influence has the tendency of demoralising judges. The court also said such an allegation could be said to be obstructing the administration of justice.

Deprecating the practice of litigants seeking transfer of their case on court's passing adverse orders, a bench of Justices MR Shah and Krishna Murari said, "We deprecate such a stand and the ground on which the proceedings are sought to be transferred. Merely because some orders are passed on the judicial side (in the present case in the execution proceedings) which may be against the petitioners, it cannot be said that the Court, which passed the order was influenced."

> Nowadays, there is a tendency to make such allegations against the judicial officers whenever the orders are passed against a litigant and the orders are not liked by the concerned litigant. We deprecate such a practice.

"Nowadays, there is a tendency to make such allegations against the judicial officers whenever the orders are passed against a litigant and the orders are not liked by the concerned litigant. We deprecate such a practice. If such a practice is continued, it will ultimately demoralise the judicial officer. In fact, such an allegation can be said to be obstructing the administration of justice," the bench said.

The court's order came in a plea which sought transfer of proceedings before the learned District and Session Judge, Dhaulpur (Rajasthan) to the Court of learned District and Sessions Judge, Noida. Transfer was sought on the petitioner's belief that they won't be able to get a fair trial due to the opposite party having the tendency of influencing the local courts.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Project Approval Board (PAB) of the education ministry didn't consider or approve any proposal for funds to madrasas in Uttar Pradesh under Scheme for Providing Quality Education in Madrasas (SPQEM) for four years from 2017-18 to 2020-21.

In a letter to Bahujan Samajwadi Party MP Kunwar Danish Ali, the minister of state for education Annapurna Devi however said that the proposal of the state government for the year 2021-22 was considered and approved by the Board after the scheme was transferred to the ministry of minority affairs. It released ₹106.49 crore subsequently to the UP government.

"This department releases the funds to the respective state governments after they prepare an annual consolidated proposal for intervention under SPQEM. BJP to reach out to Gujarat youth through digital drive

Party is targeting unaffiliated tech-savvy youth who are broadly sympathetic to the BJP

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

WITH the Assembly polls round the corner, the ruling BJP in Gujarat is shifting gears to enhance its public outreach. Under the 'BJP Digital Warrior' (BDW) campaign, the party is targeting unaffiliated tech-savvy youth who are broadly sympathetic to the party.

The party has also activated 'panna pramukhs' for door-to-door campaigns. A 'panna pramukh' is in-charge of a page of a voters' list and the first point of contact in the party's election machinery.

Party workers from neighboring states of MP, Rajasthan, and UP are starting to move into Gujarat to accelerate the electioneering process.

State BJP chief CR Patil while addressing a gathering in Surat sought to convert the poll battle into a full-scale war for power. "Elections are a few days away... all BJP workers should aim to win each seat by more than 50 thousand votes. The war is on, weapons are ready, show no mercy when you enter the field," Patil told party activists.

In effect, Patil wants to attract the youth through the BDW campaign. State BJP's social media co-convener Manan Dani Told TNIE that the idea behind BDW campaign is to bring in tech-savvy youth who are sympathetic to the party but not formally associated with it. "Such people can call a number given by the party and get connected as a digital volunteer/warrior. We have a modest target of 1 lakh youth under this campaign to begin with," said Dani. "Our target through this campaign is to connect the people with the Gujarat government and take the vision of Prime Minister Modi to every corner of Gujarat," said Dani.

Patil claims that the party has more than 1.13 crore primary members in the state. Besides, there are more than 80 lakh page committee members.

BJP maintains that in the growing social media influence, the BDW would be an innovative experiment to involve more youth in the party affairs. Initially, the campaign will run for 15 days beginning Sept 7.

BJP spokesperson Jubin Ashra Told TNIE that around 600 party workers from six states were campaigning in various parts of Gujarat. "These are preliminary visits where they are getting a sense of the areas they will have to work. They will be back soon and visit places where people from a certain state are concentrated," he said Ashra.

Mayawati nephew is new political scion?

There is a new character in the ongoing verbal duel between the SP and BSP that has continued since their bitter divorce in 2019. The previous Lok Sabha polls have seen the two arch-rivals coming together after 24 years. While BSP chief Mayawati has been taking on SP supremo Akhilesh Yadav, this week it was her nephew Akash Anand who joined the exchange. After Akhilesh termed BSP a party controlled by a jailer in Delhi, Akash Anand hit back saying, "The person who is talking about jailer is the one whose 'Rampur wale uncle' has not understood why is he not coming out of his AC room and whose party workers cannot dare to ask him why he wakes up at 2 (in the noon)."

Lucknow to get its own Jurassic Park

The state capital will have several new additions to the existing Janeshwar Mishra Park, which is spread over a whopping 275 acre. The first would be a Perfume Park on the lines of a similar facility in Dubai. For the perfume park, Lucknow Development Authority has released the initial amount. Besides, the vacant space of JM Park will also have a Jurassic Park and a Motion Park. Jurassic Park will have moving Dinosaurs made of old tyres. Both parks would have exhibits made of worn off stuff to keep them environment friendly. Visitors will have to cough an additional ₹100 to visit these parks, over and above ₹10 entry fee for the JM Park.

Hidden riches with an obscure political leader

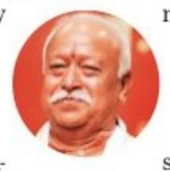
The recent I-T raids on lesser known parties to expose the 'donation scam' have come up with eye-opening discoveries. The raid in UP has exposed transactions worth ₹425 crore by a party and its leader not many would be aware of – Apna Desh led by Abdul Mabood Idrisi. This gentleman also runs a watch repair shop in Sultanpur. It is alleged that Idrisi had made a person called Razzaq as the state president of his party in Gujarat and maximum donations have come from the western state, which is being considered a bid to turn black money into white. I-T sleuths have taken droves of documents from Idrisi's place after a 16-hour search.

Ahead of its centenary year, RSS deliberates to intensify outreach

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

AHEAD of its centenary year, the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) on Saturday began its crucial meeting in Chhattisgarh capital with the objective to expand and intensify its outreach while deliberating on how to effectively carry forward the plans of the organisations at the grassroots level.

The three-day brain-storming sessions of Akhil Bharatiya Samanvay Baithak (National Coordination meeting) of the organisations inspired by the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) started at the Jainam Manas Bhavan near the Raipur airport. "The different sessions of the meeting are to be attended by the office bearers of 36 organisations inspired by the RSS. Various activities, achievements and upcoming goals of these organisations will be discussed and shared by them during the course of the three-day discussions. It's a comprehensive meeting held annually", said Sunil Ambekar, head of the All India Publicity wing of RSS. The celebrations for the RSS centenary year in 2025, is slated to begin from March 2023. The deliberation during the sessions explicating the 'Gatividhi' (past activities) and the 'Vistaar' (future plan of action) regarding their upcoming goals, a RSS functionary informed on condition of anonymity. Every organisation elucidated their 'Gatividhi', shared experiences as the sessions took stock of the 'Vistaar' during the consultation.



RSS, cited as ideological mentor of BJP, has for the first time held the All-India Coordination meeting of its allied organisations in Chhattisgarh, where the Assembly polls are due next year. BJP president J P Nadda, on his first visit to Chhattisgarh as the party chief, also attended the meeting on the first day. Ambekar however evaded the query on the polls and on the state BJP. "It's baseless to say that the Sangh organises such meetings in the states going to polls. Such programmes of RSS are scheduled much earlier." he said.

The discussions will also cover national education policy, environment, social and national security among others.

Discussions on NEP, environment

The discussions will also cover national education policy, environment, social and religious issues besides national security among others. Besides the RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat, sarkaryawah Dattatreya Hosbale, all five sah sarkaryawah Krishna Gopal, Manmohan Vaidya, Arun Kumar, Mukunda and Ramdutt Chakradhar along with other officials of the organisation are present in the coordination meeting that will conclude on September 12.

Nitish-Akhilesh posters in UP target BJP

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

AFTER splitting with the BJP and stitching a new tie-up with the Rashtriya Janata Dal and the Congress in Bihar, Janata Dal-United leader Nitish Kumar is now gaining more visibility in the Opposition group in Uttar Pradesh too. Signaling that UP's main Opposition, Samajwadi Party, has accepted Nitish Kumar's growing stature, the SP on Saturday put up posters in front of the party office and other places in Lucknow showing Nitish and Akhilesh together.

The posters carry the message: "UP+ Bihar = Gayee Modi Sarkar" (if UP and Bihar come together for LS polls, Modi government would not make a comeback in 2024)

The posters carry the message: "UP+ Bihar = Gayee Modi Sarkar" (if UP and Bihar come together for Lok Sabha polls, the Modi government would not make a comeback in 2024).

According to SP leader IP Singh, the campaign has been launched across the state.

"The new grand alliance of Bihar has already sown the seeds of BJP's end in the country," he said.

Nitish too has been meeting Opposition leaders from across the country, He recently met SP patriarch Mulayam Singh Yadav and chief Akhilesh Yadav in Delhi.

As per JD-U sources, Nitish will soon come to Lucknow to expand his party's base in the state and explore the possibility of striking alliances with any regional players from UP. On the other hand, the SP camp is also upbeat over the development.

Sources in SP say the party would always prefer Nitish as the prime ministerial candidate as compared to TMC supremo Mamata Banerjee or Telangana CM KCR, as Nitish, who belongs to Kurmi caste, is a natural ally to SP. The alliance with Nitish would shore up SP's prospects in Uttar Pradesh by tapping the Kurmi vote bank.

UP and Bihar together send 120 members to Lok Sabha. In 2019, NDA won over 100 of these 120 seats. The BJP and JD-U were in alliance in Bihar, where they together won 39 of the 40 seats.

ED raids Punjab AAP MLA, seizes ₹32 lakh cash

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

NEARLY four months after a CBI raid at the premises of an AAP MLA, the Enforcement Directorate raided Amargarh legislator Jaswant Singh Gajjan Majra late on Thursday night. Sources said ED sleuths accompanied by paramilitary forces carried out searches at five properties including Tara Haveli in Sangrur, Tara Convent School, Tara Golden Homes and Tara Feed Industry in Malerkotla. The ED searches reportedly followed up on the CBI raids at Gajjan Majra's properties in May this year in an alleged bank fraud case involving over ₹40 crore.

In a statement, the ED said it seized ₹32 lakh in cash, some mobile phones and hard drives after a raid at one of premises of Gajjan Majra and others in a money laundering investigation linked to a bank loan fraud. The searches were carried out at the business and residential premises of the accused and their associates including Tara Corporation Ltd (renamed as Malaudh Agro Ltd), its directors Jaswant Singh, Balwant Singh, Kulwant Singh, Tejinder Singh and their associates and other sister concerns in Ludhiana, Malerkotla, Khanna, Payal and Dhuri. "Incriminating pieces of evidence were seized related to bogus firms through which turnover of Tara Corporation Ltd was inflated and loan funds were diverted/siphoned by the accused. Further, mobile phones, hard drives and Indian currency worth ₹32 lakh was also seized from the searched premises," it added.

Sources said after the May raids, the CBI had claimed to have recovered ₹16.57 lakh in cash, some foreign currency, property documents, several bank accounts and other incriminating documents. The agency had registered a case on a complaint from Bank of India Model Town branch, Ludhiana against Gajjan Majra, Tara Corporation Ltd based at Gaunspura in Malerkotla and others over an alleged fraud of ₹40.92 crore.

KASHI VISHWANATH DHAM

Varanasi: Gateway to salvation to make final wait easier

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

MUMUKSHU BHAWAN, a hospice where elderly people who believe in "Kashyam Marnam Mukti" ('Death in Kashi leads to salvation'), wait for their final sojourn, is one of the many amenities that have recently been opened on the campus of Kashi Vishwanath Dham (KVD), inaugurated by PM Narendra Modi in December of last year. There were previously three such centres in Varanasi, but this one stands out since it is located in Baba Vishwanath 's courtyard.

The three-story, completely air-conditioned building, spread in 1,161 square metres, is perilously located right next to Baba Vishwanath (lord Shiva) and equidistant from the famous Manikarnika Ghat, the cremation site by the holy Ganga. The locals claim that this is the "Avimukt Kshetra," or the Kashi's holiest circle.

One of the 20 service buildings on the grounds of Kashi Vishwanath Dham is the salvation hospice, which recently welcomed those looking for salvation. Six senior citizens, two of whom are ladies, have travelled from all across the country to Mumukshu Bhawan, also known as Vaidyanath Bhawan, in anticipation of leaving for their heavenly home, receiving salvation, and never again having to participate in the tiresome cycle of life and death.

I have an intuition that Baba Vishwanath will himself come to take me away. I am glad that i have got a chance to spend my final days here.

Badri Prasad Agrawal, former engineer

I grabbed the chance as soon as I heard that I could avail the facility. I have come here with the wish of spending the last days of my life in the feet of Lord Vishwanath

Kavita Srivastava, retired school teacher

Be it Mohanlal, 64, Badri Prasad Agarwal, 88, the former mining engineer from Churu (Rajasthan), Chandulal Sadanlal Parmar, 80, the former textile machines engineer from Mumbai, or Kavita Srivastava, 69, a former schoolteacher and Kukum Jaiswal of Lucknow.

The chance to spend their final days in the courtyard of their "isht" Lord Shiva by holy Ganga has left everyone speechless. The hospice has a hostel with 40 beds. The facility is only for those over the age of 65. There are beds availabl here for anyone who meets the age requirements on a first-come, first-served basis. They are free to stay here until the day they pass away, but if someone who is near to passing away due to a terminal illness comes, they will be given preference.

"If such a person arrives and there is no vacancy, then the healthier residents would be shifted temporarily to local old age homes," says hospice manager Kaumudi Kant Ameta. In fact, the management of the hospice has been awarded to an Udaipur-based NGO Tara Sansthan which runs eye hospitals and old-age homes in Udaipur, Prayagraj and other cities. The responsibility of management was given through tender.

Ameta also shares that the hospice has a team of two doctors, six nurses-cum-caretakers, housekeeping and kitchen staff. "Inmates are given the meals as per diet chart prescribed by doctors in view of age and health condition," says Ameta, adding that a personal pantry facility is also available. All the facilities are free of cost for the inmates by the organisation, which runs on donation.

The inmates, who perform religious activities and yoga, are also taken to Kashi Vishwanath temple regularly.

As the hospice took final shape, the managers of Tarat Sanathan offered the inmates of old age homes of the organisation to register if they were interested in staying at this hospice in Kashi Vishwanath Dham. Six of them showed interest and were brought here.

11 feared dead in hooch tragedy in Haridwar

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

AS many as 11 people died after consuming spurious liquor in adjacent villages of Haridwar in Uttarakhand on Saturday. Meanwhile, the news of the deaths has shook up the state government.

It is suspected that ahead of the panchayat polls, some candidates distributed liquor to woo voters in Haridwar district. The administration has confirmed four deaths so far, while the death toll could rise as some other serious victims are still hospitalised, struggling for life. The incident was reported in the Phulgarh and Shivgarh villages. According to the information received, the confirmed victims have been identified as Raju, Amarpal and Bhola – all residents of Phulgarh village. Later, a fourth person, Manoj, of the same village also died after consuming liquor under the same circumstances.

Many villagers from here, who did not wish to be named, expressed concern over the soaring illegal trade of raw liquor. "Illegal trade of raw liquor is continuously on the rise in Haridwar. Panchayat election activities have gathered stream lately. In such a situation, raw liquor is being served in every village to woo voters and today's tragedy is a result of that," said a villager.

Three years ago, local residents witnessed a similar scene at Bhagwanpur near Haridwar as well as a bordering village in UP. In 2019, 39 people died after consuming spurious liquor in Haridwar district. Simultaneously, in Saharanpur district of UP, 50 people died.

U.K. SUCCESSION NORMS INCLUDE OATH TO STAY A PROTESTANT

Charles became king immediately upon the death of his mother, Queen Elizabeth II, on Thursday. He was officially proclaimed King Charles III on Saturday during a ceremony at St James's Palace in London. More formal steps will follow until his coronation, which may not come for months. Here's a look at the centuries-old traditions and rules surrounding the accession of a new British monarch

Who formally declares the new monarchs?

In Britain, the death of a sovereign and their successor is officially proclaimed by the Accession Council, formed of a large group of senior politicians and officials. Traditionally, the council is summoned within 24 hours of a monarch's death for a ceremonial meeting at St James's Palace. But the accession for King Charles III was delayed because the queen's death wasn't announced until early evening on Thursday, and there was not enough time to set the plans in motion for Friday.

The Accession Council is formed of members of the Privy Council—mostly past and present politicians, including all living prime ministers, as well as Church of England leaders and senior royals and other ceremonial leaders, such as the Lord Mayor of London.

The Privy Council advises the monarch and is one of the oldest parts of government. It can be traced back to the time of the Norman kings when the monarch met with a group of advisers in private, predating the modern functions of a government cabinet.

King Charles III and Camilla, the Queen Consort during an audience with the Archbishop of Canterbury at Buckingham Palace, London on Saturday | AP

Historically, the entire Privy Council is called to the Accession Council to oversee the new monarch's proclamation. But just 200 were summoned on Saturday because the number of Privy Council members now stands at 700. The ceremony was broadcast live on television for the first time Saturday.

What happens after Charles is proclaimed?

Shortly after a new monarch is formally confirmed, the sovereign holds his first Privy Council meeting, makes a personal declaration and then signs an oath to maintain the Church of Scotland, according to the Act of Union of 1707. Afterward, a heraldic official known as the Garter King of Arms publicly reads out the proclamation of the new sovereign from a balcony at St James's Palace and gun salutes are fired around London. Union flags will be flown at full-staff for about 24 hours, before returning to half-staff in mourning for the queen. Parliament is then recalled as soon as possible for senior lawmakers to take their oaths of allegiance to the new monarch.

The King must make another oath to declare that he is a faithful Protestant and will maintain the Protestant succession later at the state opening of Parliament. The oath is mandated by the Accession Declaration Act of 1910.

What about coronation?

It could take months before it happens, so as to allow for a period of mourning and to leave time to organise the ceremony. The date for Charles' coronation is not yet known.

Europe casts doubts over Iran's sincerity on N-deal

BERLIN

EUROPEAN powers on Saturday raised 'serious doubts' over Iran's sincerity in seeking a nuclear agreement, warning that Tehran's position jeopardises prospects of restoring the 2015 accord.

European mediators last month appeared to make progress in restoring the 2015 accord as Iran largely agreed to a proposed final text. But optimism dimmed when the United States sent a reply, to which Iran in turn responded.

In a joint statement on Saturday, nations like France, Germany and the United Kingdom said that the final package put to Tehran had taken the European powers "to the limit of their flexibility"

Iran President Ebrahim Raisi

"Unfortunately, Iran has chosen not to seize this critical diplomatic opportunity," they said, assessing that "instead, Iran continues to escalate its nuclear programme way beyond any plausible civilian justification".

Tehran has also reopened issues related to its legally binding obligations under the Non Proliferation Treaty that was concluded with the UN atomic energy watchdog International Atomic Energy Agency. AFP

UKRAINE CAPTURES KEY SUPPLY HUB

KHARKIV

UKRAINIAN forces said on Saturday they had entered Kupiansk in eastern Ukraine dislodging Russian troops from a key logistics hub in a lightning counter-offensive that has seen swathes of territory recaptured. Ukrainian special forces published images on social media showing camouflage-clad officers with automatic weapons 'in Kupiansk'. It "was and will always be Ukrainian," their statement said. The town of some 27,000 people, that sits on a crucial supply route for Russia forces in the east, fell within the first week after the Kremlin ordered its invasion of Ukraine.

Observers of the conflict expect Ukrainian forces to announce further gains in the Kharkiv region, which borders Russia, and has been either controlled by Russia or shelled by its artillery for months.

"Ukrainian troops are advancing in eastern Ukraine, liberating more cities and villages. Their courage coupled with Western military support brings astonishing results," foreign ministry spokesman Oleg Nikolenko said in a statement on social media. "It's crucial to keep sending arms to Ukraine. Defeating Russia on the battlefield means winning peace in Ukraine," he added. Meanwhile, Russia's Defense Ministry said on Saturday that it is pulling back forces from two areas in Ukraine's Kharkiv region.

Festive home sales may take a hit

Three repo hikes pushed home loan rates to about 8%, a big setback for homebuyers

ARSHAD KHAN @New Delhi

THREE consecutive rate hikes by the RBI that jacked up interest rates on home loans to pre-covid levels may dampen housing sales in the ongoing festive season.

Not only lending rates, gradual increase in property prices and fewer benefits offered by the big developers may keep a section of buyers.

"Even when housing demand remains strong, home loan rates and developer prices have increased in the wake of 140 bps repo rate hike by the RBI and input costs. Moreover, Grade A (large and listed) developers are reporting high sales despite a price rise, and this will prevent them from any reductions. At the most, only the smaller developers may reduce prices to attract buyers," Anuj Puri, Chairman, ANAROCK Group, told TNIE.

Puri expects sales in the upcoming festive quarter (Oct-Dec) will remain more or less the same as that in the corresponding period of 2021. As per ANAROCK Research, as many as 91,000 units were sold during the festive quarter - Q4, 2021 (Oct-Dec). Historically, festive quarter experiences maximum sales, followed by July- September quarter.

"The reason (for high sales in Q4, 2022) being that last year there was a pent-up demand in housing and rates were their lowest best at the time. Most developers including the large and listed players were sweetening their deals by doling out offers and discounts to cash in on the demand," added Puri.

Dhaval Ajmera, director at Ajmera Realty Infra, however, feels like previous years, this festive season is expected to see a paradigm shift in buyer's psyche. They are now more cautious but smarter than before and plans strategically before investing, he says. "Majorly three factors influence people to buy properties during the festival seasons - festival is seen as an auspicious time to invest in something, new construction projects are launched during this time, and real estate developers are known to offer interesting schemes to attract buyers to their projects," added Ajmera

SECTOR OUTLOOK

- As per ANAROCK Research, as many as 91,000 units were sold during the festive quarter - Q4, CY2021 (Oct-Dec)
- Anarock estimates similar numbers during this year's festive season

CONCERNS

- Increased cost of finance
- More rate hike expected by the RBI
- Inflationary trend in cost of raw material
- Shrinking discounts/offers by developers

More Pain in Near Future?

With the European Central Bank last week hiking key rates by 50 bps and talk of the US Federal Reserve taking aggressive steps to tame the inflationary pressure, there are high chances the RBI may follow the global practice. Any further hike in rate by the central bank may prove to be a major spoiler for homebuyers and for the overall housing market. In the last three months, RBI has hiked rate by 140 bps -- 40 bps in May, 50 bps in July, and 50 bps in August.

This has pushed home loan rates across banks to about 8%, a big setback for buyers who had availed finance when rates offered by banks had rock-bottomed to 6.50% and is turning out to be a deal breaker for prospective buyers. On every 1% rise in loan rates, the EMI for every ₹1 lakh of home loans is likely to increase by ₹60-70 per month.

"It is anticipated that the RBI will hike repo rates by about 50 bps in the upcoming bi-monthly policy meets in October and December, which inevitably could impact the ongoing sales momentum. If at all, this doesn't happen and along with it the government also rolls out any new incentives for the housing sector, only then we may see sales rising in this festive season in comparison to a year ago period," said Puri. He added that this also comes along the inflationary trends of basic raw materials including cement, steel, labour cost etc that have led to rise in property prices recently.

Together both these factors – rising loan rates and construction costs - would go on to impact residential sales that did fairly well in the first half of 2022.

Strong Fundamentals May Support Growth

Many realty developers and industry experts are optimistic about sales in the on-going festive season because they believe that the current growth cycle is led by fundamentals such as strong buyer demand rather than speculation. To note, housing sales, by some estimates, in the first half of 2022 (January-June) were the highest in over a decade and second only to the first half of 2010. Anshuman Magazine, Chairman & CEO - India, South-East Asia, Middle East & Africa, CBRE, said, "While we expect the continued inflation and rising cost of financing to impact stakeholder sentiments in the near term, the sector's overall health is likely to remain strong owing to positive homebuyer sentiments."

Magazine added, "In addition, there has been an increase in appetite for home ownership post the pandemic, and with the upcoming festive season, it might generally withstand the marginal changes in loan rates. Going forward, capital value growth will likely remain range-bound across select pockets and categories."

While we expect the continued inflation and rising cost of financing to impact stakeholder sentiments in the near term, the sector's overall health is likely to remain strong owing to positive homebuyer sentiments
Anshuman Magazine, Chairman & CEO - India, South-East Asia, Middle East & Africa, CBRE

We anticipate during the festive season Indian real estate will continue to be on the rise and people will want to upgrade themselves and buy better and bigger homes
Dhaval Ajmera, director at Ajmera Realty infra ltd

Presently, even when housing demand remains strong, loan rates and developer prices have increased in the wake of 140 bps repo rate hike and input costs. Moreover, large and listed developers are reporting high sales despite a price rise

PAKISTAN FLOOD HAVOC: WILL THE SINNERS PAY?

GURBIR SINGH

THERE seems to be no end in sight for the climate breakdown we are experiencing the world over. Haunting images chase us from Sindh and Baluchistan, in Pakistan, of desperate young men dragging coffins through miles of flooded water in search of a dry patch to bury the dead.

Pakistan's endless rains and simultaneous glacial meltdowns in the upper reaches of the Himalayas has pushed the Indus and other rivers and lakes over their banks and inundated one-third of the country. Nearly 1,400 people, over 500 of them small children, are dead. More than 33 million people are economically hit or displaced, more than half a million have been rendered homeless.

While its floods and cloudburst in Pakistan and Sudan, it is drought and heat waves in China and Europe at a scale rarely seen before. Europe's summer this year has scorched thousands of acres of farmlands and displaced hundreds. Pinhao, Portugal recorded a temperature of 47°C, while the United Kingdom sizzled at an unheard of over-40°C.

Flood distress

While climate scientists are still scrambling to understand the sudden and devastating floods, the extreme heat wave in April and May experienced by the country had sent alarm bells ringing. Temperatures of 40°C for prolonged periods in many swathes of the country had become common and the city of Jacobabad topped with a sweltering 50°C. Very warm air can naturally hold more moisture, and it was a warning that a very wet monsoon was to follow.

Scientists in Pakistan, who have researching the cause of the flooding, say the intense heat also melted glaciers in the northern mountains, pushing water beyond the banks of the Indus and its tributaries which run the stretch of the country. Several glacial lakes have also melted and burst through the dams of ice, releasing unmanageable volumes of water downstream.

These factors coincided with a larger-than-normal depression – a huge pocket of low pressure – over the Arabian Sea, that brought heavy rain to Pakistan's coastal provinces at the start of the monsoon cycle in June. Weather experts point out that Sindh and Baluchistan have received as much as 5 times the normal monsoon average. Water, which has nowhere to go, and has formed multiple lakes washing away bridges and over 5,000 kilometers of roads.

Who will pay for the damage?

Even after pressing the armed forces for flood relief, the Pakistan government is struggling. United Nation Secretary-General Antonio Guterres has appealed for $160 million in emergency funding, while the US is rushing immediate aid worth $30 million.

However, all this scraping around for international relief is only band aid for a tragedy that is ultimately the responsibility of the developed, western world. It is in this context that the demand by the poorer nations for a 'loss and damage fund' became shrill at the last Climate Change convention – COP26 – held in Glasgow last November.

Look at the facts: According to the Global Climate Risk Index, Pakistan accounts for less than 1% of the world's planet-warming gases. Horn of Africa nations Kenya, Ethiopia, Somalia and South Sudan -- enduring a grueling two-year drought and extreme food insecurity -- are together responsible for only 0.1% of global emissions.

In contrast, the US has to answer for 25% of all carbon emissions since industrialization began in 1850, the European Union 22%, and China, though today's biggest single emitter, a distant third with 13% of global emissions. The Global North is responsible for a whopping 92% of global emissions threatening the planet.

Yet it is the Global South that is bearing the crisis of climate breakdown.

Pakistan ranks 8th in climate-related vulnerability behind countries including Myanmar, Haiti, Mozambique and Bangladesh.

Pakistan's Minister for Planning, Development and Reform, Ahsan Iqbal, summed it up thus: "All the quality of life that people are enjoying in the west, someone is paying the price in the developing world," he said on August 30.

The principle that 'sinners must pay' emerged on the agenda at the November Glasgow session of Climate talks. During the conference, the developed nations stepped up with new pledges, but far, far below the annual $70 billion developing countries are thought to need now, an amount that could rise to $300 billion a year by 2030.

The developed world, despite all its crocodile tears, have so far refused responsibility for the Climate Change problem. U.S. climate envoy John Kerry conceded to journalists that increased resources would be needed to support people on the frontiers of climate change, but said consensus would be needed to first understand how the money could be raised and delivered.

Refreshingly, Scotland and the Wallonia province in Belgium, are the first to forward to pay towards 'loss and damage' with a contribution of one million euros a piece. Though a small amount, it is a start and sets a precedent. The die has been cast, and it is now unlikely the poorer nations will allow Climate Change talks to move forward without settling the question of who pays for the damage. t, and it is now unlikely the poorer nations will allow Climate Change talks to move forward without settling the question of who pays for damage.

Telcos expected to invest $19.5 billion by 2025 to develop 5G infrastructure

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

INDIAN telecom carriers are expected to invest nearly $19.5 billion by 2025 to develop infrastructure for 5G network.

As per the report of GSMA, the rollout of 5G in India could benefit the Indian economy by $455 billion between 2023 and 2040 or or more than 0.6% of the GDP forecast for 2040.

"5G benefits are expected to be realised in new applications in the manufacturing sector (representing 20% of the total benefit) as well as the retail, ICT and agricultural sectors," reads the report.

The report further said that the Indian government has assigned two carriers of 250 MHz each in the E-band to address the current need to support 5G rollouts.

This may not be enough in the 5G era given the requirement for high-capacity backhaul to support use cases and increased data traffic. It said a clear policy guideline on the allocation of backhaul spectrum is necessary.

As per the GSMA report, the consumer and enterprise segments both present significant opportunities for 5G services in India. However, further reforms are required to support the development of advanced telecom infrastructure as a fundamental driver for a digital society.

The report noted that there still exists a substantial digital divide in India, with lack of literacy and skills remaining the greatest barrier preventing large swathes of the population from participating in the digital economy and the social and economic benefits it can bring to their lives.

"Given the importance of 5G to India's digital future, it has become critical for the government and the mobile industry to collectively evolve and ensure the sustainable growth of the mobile industry," the GSMA report mentioned.

India is expected to witness 5G services soon. India's largest telco Reliance Jio said it would launch 5G services by Diwali, while Airtel said it will launch its service within a month.

In pursuit of this aim, it has been running several high-quality educational interventions, right from supporting pre-school education to implementing e-learning programmes to address the learning gaps created by the pandemic over the past two years. These programmes have been a key enabler in increasing the average literacy level of Jharsuguda district from 70.55% (2001) to 78.86% (2011), benefitting over 6,400 children till the previous academic year.

19-year-old Alcaraz survives tough contest against home favourite Tiafoe to become the youngest US Open finalist since Sampras

AP @ New York

CARLOS Alcaraz and Frances Tiafoe engaged in a high-level, high-energy spectacle of a back-and-forth semifinal at the U.S. Open — no point over when it seemed to be, no ball out of reach, no angle too audacious.

One sequence was so stuffed with "What?! How?!" moments by both men that Arthur Ashe Stadium spectators were on their feet before it was over and remained there, clapping and carousing, while watching a replay on the video screens.

Ultimately, enough of the winners went Alcaraz's way, and too many of the mistakes came from Tiafoe's racket. And so it was Alcaraz who surged into his first Grand Slam final — and, in the process, gave himself a chance to become No. 1 at age 19 — by ending Tiafoe's run at Flushing Meadows with a 6-7 (6), 6-3, 6-1, 6-7 (5), 6-3 victory on Friday night. Alcaraz appeared to seize control by grabbing nine of 10 games in one stretch and could have ended the evening when he held a match point in the fourth set.

But Tiafoe, who is ranked 26th, saved it and soon was yelling, with some colourful language mixed in for emphasis, "I'm putting my heart on the line!" Soon after that, Tiafoe was forcing a fifth set by improving to a U.S. Open-record 8-0 in tiebreakers.

Now No. 3 Alcaraz will face No. 7 Casper Ruud for the championship Sunday with so much on the line: The winner will become a major champion for the first time and lead the rankings next week.

RESULTS

Men's singles: Semi-finals

Casper Ruud (NOR x5) bt Karen Khachanov (x27) 7-6 (5), 6-2, 5-7, 6-2

Men's doubles: Final

Joe Salisbury/Rajeev Ram (GBR/USA x1) bt Neal Skupski/Wesley Koolhof (GBR/NED x2) 7-6 (4), 7-5.

DURACELL BUNNIES

You will get popcorn moments, you will get quick service games but with these two, you will also get points that seemingly don't finish. Two of the fittest on the tour, they can keep running all day long as if their lives depended on it. Alcaraz, of course, may start to feel it more if the final goes into overtime.

FITTING FINALE

History beckons both players in a winner-takes-all US Open men's final. A look...

WINNER BECOMES NEW NO1

Forget the fact that the winner will have a maiden Slam title in their cupboard. The winner will also become the new No 1. The stakes cannot be any higher. While Spain has produced numerous No 1 in the history of men's tennis, if Ruud wins, he will become the first Norwegian to ascend the throne.

SPANIARD EYES RECORD

The Murcian, of course, has been pencilled in for greatness for a few years now but nobody could have predicted it could come this early. If he takes the crown, he will become the youngest to be ranked No 1 since 1973 (Lleyton Hewitt has the current record at 20 yrs, 9 months).

BATTLE OF FOREHANDS

The main point-winning weapon of both players is a forehand. But the one which Ruud employs has more spin in it so it will be interesting to see how the Spaniard tackles them. The latter's forehand has more pace and it's a touch flatter.

ALCARAZ'S CONDITIONING

At 19, the adrenaline tends to take you a long way. Yet, he has played three physical five-setters in as many matches. With Ruud having enjoyed a more serene second half of the tournament, a fast start is key for the Spaniard.

Clash of Asian titans

Two familiar rivals face each other in the Asia Cup final after eight years. A look...

SHADAB, THE X-FACTOR

46 runs at 131.42 strike rate and 7 wickets at 5.79 economy. One cannot ask for more from a bowling all-rounder-vice-captain. Shadab Khan has, by and large, been the X-factor for the top-heavy Pakistan side. Should Shadab continue to have a similar impact in the final, there would be very little the Lankans could do to stop him.

SHANAKA'S CHANCE

Dasun Shanaka has led Sri Lanka admirably, not just with his captaincy decision, but also contributing with the bat in crucial situations. Having trumped Pakistan in the last Super 4s game, he and the team management should be confident of replicating a similar performance to reclaim the title for the first time since 2014.

PACE VS SPIN

If Pakistan pacers — Naseem Shah, Haris Rauf and Mohammad Hasnain — have collectively impressed in the tournament, for Sri Lanka, spinners — Wanindu Hasaranga and Maheesh Theekshana — have played a vital role. Essentially, the battle on Sunday is likely to be focussed on how batters from either side will counter this. Once again, toss might have significant say in it as well.

Ankur Malik (R) top-scored (81 runs) for North East on Saturday | ASHWIN PRASATH

West bowlers take charge on Day 3

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @ Chennai

WHEN you know that you have a mountain to climb and do not have the equipment to do so, intelligence demands that safety be the priority or else one would crash land.

After West Zone declared at the overnight score of 590/2 in 123 overs, North East Zone in reply were callous in their shot selection and crash landed at 235 on the third day of the Duleep Trophy quarterfinal at the MA Chidambaram Stadium Saturday. At stumps, West Zone were 12 for 1 in 9 overs in their second essay.

When caution, patience and temperament were the need of the hour, North East Zone top-order showed their inexperience at the top level. North East Zone top-order caved in without a fight, losing four wickets with just 20 runs on the board. Both Jayadav Unadkat and Chintan Gaja combined well and picked up seven wickets between them. Jaydev exploited the conditions in the morning and was almost unplayable. He removed Kishan Lyngdoh and Al Bashid of successive deliveries.

After the wicket eased out and Unadkat was removed from the attack, the scoreboard started to tick. The only player from North East Zone to show some pluck was all-rounder Ankur Malik who made 81. Although he was lucky to be dropped once, Ankur was easily the best player of North East Zone on the day.

"The wicket in the morning was not that dangerous so as to lose four wickets under 20 runs. Sometimes it was tough to play the medium-pacers, but it was easy to play the spinners," said Ankur after the day's play which was extended by an hour. Had the North East Zone top order concentrated a bit more, the deficit could have been less. "If they (top order) played with more responsibility and concentrated then we would have be in a good position. Our shot selection went wrong, we should have focused a little more. And for our bowlers they don't have enough assistance," said Ankur.

Brief scores: West Zone 590/2 decl in 123 overs and 12/1 in 9 ovs vs North East Zone 235 all out in 81.5 ovs (Ankur Malik 81, A Thapa 43, H Zhimomi 32, J Unadkat 3/35, C Gaja 4/38).

Dhull smashes 193

PUDUCHERRY: Talented batter Yash Dhull hit a superb 193 decorated with 28 fours and two sixes to power North Zone to 433/3 in their first innings at stumps on day three of the Duleep Trophy quarterfinal against East Zone here on Saturday.

Brief scores: East Zone 397 in 136.4 ovs vs North Zone 433/3 in 111 ovs (Yash Dhull 193).

Pace attack in focus with little to change for India before T20 WC

VENKATA KRISHNA B @ Chennai

EVEN though India have returned back empty-handed from the Asia Cup in the UAE, the team management and the selectors are unlikely to deviate from the plan and make big changes in the T20 World Cup bound squad. The cut-off date to announce the squad is September 15 and as of now there is no official word as to when the selectors will assemble, but it is understood that in all likelihood the meeting could take place in Mumbai on Wednesday.

While the Asia Cup was in many ways a big reality check, the team management and selectors were also wary of other aspects that didn't work. To start with, the toss factor is something India have factored in as right through the tournament teams batting second enjoyed a good success rate. Only thrice did teams win batting first and two of those came against Hong Kong. And then, India continued to rotate their players, still appearing to figure which combination will suit them at the World Cup. They also missed two of their key bowlers — Jasprit Bumrah and Harshal Patel — who have long been part of India's plans at the T20 World Cup.

Bumrah hasn't played a match since the second ODI against England on July 14. After being rested for the tour of West Indies, he was ruled out of Asia Cup because of a back injury and is currently at the National Cricket Academy. It is understood that his rehabilitation is going as scheduled and is expected to be fit in time for the T20 World Cup.

Jasprit Bumrah

As per the initial assessment, the pacer is believed to have only had a niggle, and after proper rest, he has started bowling at the nets. However, it is not clear at this stage if Bumrah will be included for the three T20Is against Australia starting on September 20 and for the South Africa series that starts on September 28, which will act as a dress rehearsal for the showpiece event. In case the concerns persist over Bumrah's availability, India may have to look at Mohammed Shami – a seamer who hasn't been part of their T20 plans. The Bengal pacer last played a T20I at the last T20 World Cup, but had a very good IPL, picking up 20 wickets at an economy rate of 8.0. With regards to Patel, who suffered a rib injury, the seamer has already resumed bowling at the NCA and his clearing fitness test is only expected to be a formality. Just like Bumrah, who India are banking heavily on, Patel's availability too will be a big boost. Apart from being a reliable operator at the end overs, he can also add depth in the batting.

However, the major discussion will be around the composition of the squad. India went with only three pacers for the Asia Cup, something that came back to bite them badly. However, for the World Cup, India will take a minimum of four. Apart from Bumrah (fitness permitting) and Patel, Bhuveshwar Kumar, Arshdeep Singh look certain to take the plane. All-rounder Hardik Pandya will be the fifth seam bowling option.

In the spin department, there are few tough calls to take. The absence of Ravindra Jadeja means, it is bound to have a domino effect in the balance of the XI. While leg-spinner Yuzvendra Chahal is certain, there is three-way competition between R Ashwin, Axar Patel and Ravi Bishnoi for the two remaining slots.

CAIRNS: Australia captain Aaron Finch says he's retiring from ODI cricket effective Sunday after the team plays New Zealand in the third and final ODI. Cricket Australia said in a statement on Saturday that Finch will continue to captain Australia's T20 side.

The other members of the squad are Sumit Nagal, Ramkumar Ramanathan, Prajnesh Gunneswaran, Yuki Bhambri and Mukund Sasikumar. It remains to be seen if Saketh Myneni is picked for the doubles tie in place of Bopanna.

Riske 'excited' to keep up good run

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

IT was in 2019 when Alison Riske shone through after a series of impressive wins on the circuit. One of the highlights of her year was beating then World No 1 Ashleigh Barty in the third round of Wimbledon before going down in three tight sets to Serena Williams in the quarterfinals. It also included a triumph at 's-Hertogenbosch apart from reaching the final at Wuhan, a WTA 1000 event. Those run of results propelled her to the WTA Elite Trophy, an end-of-season competition for players ranked between 9 and 19. That in itself was evidence of her improvement. She began the year 48th, she was 18th when the calendar finished.

Her 2020 began promisingly, a run to the quarterfinals at Brisbane before her best performance at Melbourne (4th round). Just when it looked like that upward trajectory was taking off, the calendar came to a halt, thanks to the pandemic. After the tournaments returned, she was down with a nasty foot injury that cost her close to nine months of playing time. The wins dried up in the first part of 2021 (4-11 losing record) but a steady late-season charge culminated in a third title (Austria). She needed that, more than anything to convince herself that she was past her injury troubles. 2022, though, has been about moving back up the rankings. She has put together a fine sequence of results, which has included a run to the fourth round of US Open.

Eugenie Bouchard, 2014 Wimbledon finalist, during a practice session in Chennai on Saturday | R SATISH BABU

She's now World No 29 and she believes it's only set to improve in the weeks to come. "Have had a great season," the top-seed at the Chennai Open told a few mediapersons after a training session at the SDAT tennis stadium on Saturday. "Excited to keep the momentum going."

She preferred to focus on the positives when she was asked to reflect on 2019, her breakout season. "At that point, it was the best year of my career," she said. "Covid hit, then I was out for nine months. This year, I have been healthy and kind of back to where I was in 2019 which is really exciting. I'm healthy and that's the most important thing for me." One of the continuing themes in women's tennis has been the multiple Slam winners in recent seasons (15 different women have won a Major since the beginning of 2017). While some have pointed to that stat to suggest some inconsistency, the 32-year-old says 'it's cool'."I think it's cool for our sport to have a little bit more of a rotating door, but at the same time we are ready to have that one person kind of represent us, be the figurehead of women's tennis."

That figurehead, till last week, was Serena Williams. Riske, who has played doubles with the 23-time Major champion, hopes that her compatriot would stay in the sport. "For me, she will always remain the greatest of all time. I hope she stays involved. In our sport, we need her. She does so much for us. In my mind, she will be the best."

Saturday's results (only Indians, qualifying round 1): Liang En-shuo bt Rutuja Bhosale 6-3, 6-2, Justina Mikulskyte bt Riya Bhatia 6-4, 6-0, Yuki Naito bt Lakshmi Prabha Arunkumar 6-4, 6-1, Kyoka Okamura bt Sowjanya Bavisetti 6-4, 6-0, Nao Hibino bt Sai Samhitha Chamarthi 6-1, 6-0.

Facing potential ban, time for IOA stakeholders to find solutions amicably

IT'S turning out to be a disastrous year for sports and its administration. There have been multiple cases of litigations, ugly in-fighting and mud-slinging, suspensions of National Sports Federations, et al. The list definitely is not at all encouraging and as we head towards the end of the year, the Indian Olympic Association, the umbrella body of all sports in the country is facing suspension.

The International Olympic Committee (IOC) sent a final warning on Thursday during its Executive Board meeting and said if IOA's house is not in order (issues like hold elections and all party resolve issues amicably) by next meeting in December, it will face sanctions.

To quote the letter: "To issue a final warning and consider the immediate suspension of the NOC of India at the next IOC Executive Board meeting in December 2022 if, by then, the NOC of India is not able to:

1. address and resolve its governance issues to the satisfaction of the IOC, in the interest of sport and the athletes; and

2. operate properly through its governing bodies, i.e. the Executive Committee and General Assembly, and fulfill its obligations, in particular by holding its quadrennial elections in accordance with the Olympic Charter."

Also the IOC has proposed a joint meeting on September 27 at Lausanne with all stakeholders. According to IOA secretary general Mehta, three members from the IOA will be going to Lausanne. "The two senior vice presidents — Anil Khanna and RK Anand and the secretary general (Mehta)," said Mehta. Another member who will be representing India is IOC member Nita Ambani. "Since she is an IOC member from India, she will be part of the meeting," Mehta said. Though the IOA has not specified who else will be going, there are indications that representatives of the sports ministry might accompany them. Mehta said that IOA will be working towards meeting the December deadline. "I am positive everything will be sorted by December," he said.

Senior vice president Khanna, whose post of acting president was not recognised by the IOC, said it would be good if all stakeholders come together and resolve the issue. He did not want to comment on the IOC's decision to not recognise his post of acting president but said "we should focus on larger issues". He said that the IOC's decision to call IOA for a meeting is a positive sign. "We have to work together and get IOA back on track," he said. "All of us must come together. We have to fulfil the directives of the IOC. We have to chalk out a timeline and work towards finding a solution to the satisfaction of the IOC."

Interestingly, though the IOC has indicated clearly to "operate properly through its governing bodies, i.e. the Executive Committee and General Assembly", the IOA is yet to decide on a date for an executive committee meeting. Those supporting Adille Sumariwalla, who also claimed to be the IOA president earlier, had been demanding that the EC meeting be called and matters be decided on the house. However, Mehta, as of now, has not called for any such meeting. Even the composition of IOA representatives seems a little hazy with other faction saying there should be an EC meeting to decide the members. There is a tussle over this as well.

There is also the danger of going to Lausanne without calling for an EC meeting. The letter sent by the IOC indicates that it still recognises the EC despite claims to the contrary by the Mehta faction, whose contention is that the EC ceased to exist after December 14, when its four-year term was over. Since elections were not held, the EC did not exist. The IOC, on the contrary, has been insisting that EC does exist. The IOC's position is simple. Hold elections under the existing constitution (2018) that was vetted by the IOC and in consonance with the Olympic Charter.
